Edison's Beautiful Country
A Peace Boycott
A Compliment From Japan
Hard Drinks and Soft

By Arthur Brisbane

THOMAS A. EDISON is gone. The long, courageous fight against death, the noble life of work are ended. Rest and a name that will live for centuries are the reward of labor that has enlightened and enriched the world.

In his last moments, as he stirred in a heavy sleep that had lasted for days, his physician, bending above Edison heard distinctly the words, "It is very beautiful over there."

In those last words, announcing the greatest of Edison's discoveries on this earth, there is hope for us all, for the great that do well in this life, for the humble, and the failures that must look for consolation beyond this life.

"IT IS VERY BEAUTIFUL OVER THERE."

Faith and inborn conviction assure us of it, knowledge that justice governs the universe, makes conviction certainty.

This life is not all, the grave is not the end. Another "very beautiful" world awaits Edison, who made this world beautiful with light.

The Carnegie Foundation spending millions accumulated by a benevolent Scotchman, appoints a committee to end war, with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler at the head. The plan to be discussed, and perhaps approved, is this:

Let the United States put an economic boycott on any nation that starts war, thus crippling that nation, by shutting off supplies.

It is a good idea, like that of the mouse that suggested tying a bell around the cat's neck. But it might mean dragging the United States into every future war. We have been paying for the last one since 1922, and that one was enough. How will you decide who is starting the trouble?

Who started the big war? France and England say Germany did.

Germany says the war grew out of a political murder, with which Germany had nothing to do. The nations were ready for war, at least two of the most powerful wanted it. Whom should the United States have boycotted in 1914?

Who is starting the trouble in Asia? The world, or 90 per cent of it, says:

"Japan wants territory, sees her chance in Manchuria, knows the other nations are too busy to interfere. Japan is starting a war."

Japan says, which is true, that the Chinese began it, by killing in cold blood a Japanese officer and two soldiers.

Japan's army cries, "Remember our murdered comrades," and the world calls that a convenient pretext.

About 35 years ago, we were all saying, "Remember the Maine," and Spain called that a "pretext."

The best American contribution to peace would be minding our own business here in America and KEEPING PREPARED FOR ANYTHING THAT MAY HAPPEN.

Fewer peace committees, less meddling in Europe and Asia, more airships and submarines would be our best peace program.

Japan protests against our helping the League of Nations to give Japan orders, and the protest is justified. We are not members of that League, thanks be to God and to George Washington's warnings, and we have no business rushing to dictate to Japan.

That the Japanese do not protest in any spirit of hostility toward us, is made plain by a desire, widespread in Japan, that the League keep out and the United States act as sole arbiter in the Japan-China quarrel.

This country, says Japan, knows more about the East than the League and would make a better umpire.

Thanks to Japan for the compliment. Japan's sincerity is undoubted. She accepted the United States as arbiter between her and Russia, when Roosevelt was President, got, certainly none the best of the arbitration, but abided loyally by the decision rendered.

Advocates of light wines and beers say beer would make workmen contented, and advises those in power to remember what happened in Russia when the Czar decided to make his subjects drink only water, "to make them more efficient in war." He did make them more efficient, and immediately they got rid of him, as a demonstration of efficiency. The "wets" also say that beer will give employment to many, and restore prosperity.

The "drys" say beer would put out of work thousands that now are making non-alcoholic drinks, would injure a great industry, interfere with the sale

POLICEMAN 'KILLS 2 IN DEFENSE'

"Two-Gun Girl"

Mrs. Betty Seay of the Bronx, N. Y. arrested early today in Brookfield with two sailors after a Shrewsbury lunchcart had been held up. State police say she had a gun under each arm when captured. (Staff photo.)

GIRL SEIZED IN ARMED HOLDUP

Worcester, Oct. 19—Two armed sailors with a blonde "gun girl" early today held up and robbed Leo Shipulski, night manager of a lunch cart in the Boston Post rd., Shrewsbury, of $25.

A radio alarm was broadcast with the result that 35 minutes later the trio was arrested in a New York auto by State Trooper Anthony J. Gould in Brookfield. He said the girl had a gun under each arm.

She gave her name as Mrs. Betty Seay of 1011 Sheridan ave., Bronx, N. Y., the same address as that furnished by one of the sailors, Sidney Weiner. Both sailors were in uniform.

The other sailor said he was Edward J. Therian of Brooklyn, N. Y. They were taken to the Holden Barracks of the State police, where they were charged with robbery while armed, assault and robbery on Shipulski and carrying guns without a permit.

Later Weiner claimed that the girl was his wife, and that she had given her maiden name to police. She is 22. It was expected their cases would be presented to the Worcester County grand jury, which convenes today.

In district court the two men pleaded not guilty, but the girl pleaded guilty to all charges. The three were held in $5000 each for a hearing next Friday.

Therian said he was a third class electrician's mate on the U. S. S. Hopkins and Weiner said he is a third class quartermaster on the Coastguard destroyer McDougal.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 19—His memory as the greatest scientist of the age mourned in every country of the world, the body of Thomas A. Edison lay in state today in a glass-topped bronze casket in his lofty-ceilinged workroom of the Edison laboratories. He died at his home here early Sunday.

Funeral services for the genius, who literally gave light to the world, will be conducted at Glenmont, his home here, Wednesday, the 52d anniversary of what was perhaps the prolific inventor's most beneficent gift to humanity—the incandescent light.

BURIAL IN JERSEY

Only the family and close friends of Edison are to be present at the final rites. President Hoover will attend the services for his friend if he can pre-arrange his plans.

Edison will be buried here and not at Milan, O., his birthplace, his family decided today.

Elaborate arrangements were completed today to handle the thousands who will file past Edison's bier where his body lies in state. No vehicular traffic is permitted in the main street block in which the laboratory stands. A rope was strung for 50 feet along the street to permit persons to pass in single file in and out of the building.

The body, escorted by motorcycle police and followed by two large automobiles carrying members of his household, was moved from his home to the laboratory at 8:45 a. m.

This was done in accordance with the family's wishes that employes might first view the body of the inventor.

There, surrounded by his familiar objects, test tubes, notebooks, blueprints and the like, Edison lay in state.

WORKERS IN TRIBUTE

Flags on the Edison company buildings were ordered flown at half-mast until after the funeral of the man who harnessed electricity to the purpose of mankind whose

New York, Oct. 19 (INS)—A Thomas Edison memorial program will be broadcast from Station WOR here tonight, at 8:30.

Arthur Brisbane, Prof. Michael Pupin of Columbia University, will be speakers. Charles M. Schwab and the Rev. Harry E. Fosdick also are expected to take part. Invitations have been extended to them to speak.

Pope Asks Prayers for All

Vatican City, Oct. 19 (AP)—Pope Pius XI today asked Bishop Thomas C. O'Reilly of Scranton, Pa., to request American bishops, at their coming reunion, to pray for the improvement of the world.

The pontiff, who made the request during a private audience granted to Bishop O'Reilly, impressed upon him that there are two important points to be kept in mind: First, that it is necessary greatly to improve the economic standard of the worker, and, second, that physical relief is not sufficient, but divine help also is necessary.

Bishop O'Reilly was accompanied by Rev. Thomas Shannon of Cleveland, O.

BLUENOSE HALF MILE IN LEAD

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 19 (AP)—Bluenose, queen of the North Atlantic fishing fleets, led the challenger Gertrude L. Thebaud of Gloucester, the U. S. challenger, by more than the distance she had to make today in her defense of the International Fishermen's trophy.

The first 18 miles of the 36-mile ocean course was bitterly contested by Capt. Angus Walters of the Bluenose and Capt. Ben Pine of the Gloucesterman.

Running almost directly before the northerly breeze, the rival sailing masters directed their efforts to gaining the lead rather than to speed. They used up about two hours and a half of their six hour time allowance on the first half of the course. Captain Pine was forced to relinquish an advantage he had gained at the outset and was trailing Captain Angus by more than half a mile when the Sambro light vessel, marking the half-way point, was reached.

Bluenose was officially timed as passing the light vessel at 11:27:50, and Thebaud at 11:33:16.

At noon the Bluenose had increased its lead to one mile.

Brakes Fail on Truck, Arlington Man Hurt

George Davis, 29, of 52 Cleveland st., Arlington, was seriously injured today in Watertown, when his baker's truck was hit by a milk truck, operated by Stewart H. Gidney of Beech ave., Melrose.

Davis stopped his truck in Main st. and was standing on the step. The impact threw him and the muscles of his left leg were torn away. He was taken to Waltham Hospital.

Gidney told police the brake rod on his truck snapped.

3 BEATEN AT MILL GATES IN STRIKE

Lawrence Girl and Two Men Slugged; One Arrest; Lowell Police Aid Is Called

Lawrence, Oct. 19—Two workmen and a girl were slugged and beaten today as 20,000 strikers gathered about the mill gates, refusing to respond to Governor Ely's request to go back to work, and protesting at the opening of the plants.

A handful of workers reported at the various mills, generally with per to escape from the crowds about the gates.

Several persons reported that during the night stones were thrown through the windows of their homes, with notes attached, threatening them with bodily injury if they went to work.

LOWELL POLICE CALLED

Fear of serious trouble, especially from the radical element, led local authorities in call for aid from Lowell, and two sergeants and 37 patrolmen responded at daybreak.

As he was entering the Wood mill of the American Woolen Co., Fred Shone, 65, of 402 Market st., was hit with a milk bottle which crashed his face deeply. His son, Fred, 23, went to his aid and was also beaten.

Police said about ten strikers took part in the attack, but only one was arrested. He is Giovanni Di Franco, 27, of Union st., charged with assault and battery, and intimidation.

An unidentified girl was knocked down by a woman striker outside the Wood mill. According to police she was hit on the chin by a Boston bag filled with stones.

Bugles blowing revellie to get the strikers up early this morning and on to the picket lines lent a militaristic touch.

Two mills, the Washington and Wood, of the American Woolen Co., had 10,000 strikers parading before them in columns, four abreast.

HOLD MASS MEETING

Following the forenoon picketing, the strikers went to the Common for a mass meeting and speeches by Robert Watts, president of the Lawrence Central Labor Union and Horace Riviere, A. F. of L. organizer, who complimented them on their resistance to the proposed wage cuts.

Two ministers, Rev. Glenn Trimble and Rev. Arthur Fauss, both of whom are graduates of the Boston University Theological School, were reported to be leading picket lines.

Boston Man Seized in Lynn Auto Crash

Howard J. Buckley, 25, of Roxbury parkway, Boston, was arrested in Lynn early today charged with being drunk and operating an auto while under influence of liquor. The arrest followed a collision with another machine.

Buckley's injuries were treated at Lynn police headquarters. The name of a Lynn girl who was with him was withheld by police. No charges were preferred against her.

Mussolini to Visit Berlin This Winter

Rome, Oct. 19 (AP)—Premier Mussolini will go to Berlin some time this winter, it was announced today, but for the present he will be represented by Foreign Minister Dino Grandi who goes to the German capital on Oct. 25.

Mr. Grandi will spend two days there, returning the recent visit of Chancellor Bruening and former Foreign Minister Julius Curtius.

FIREBUG BEGINS HIS 4TH YEAR

Provincetown, Oct. 19—Despite months of sleuthing by insurance company detectives, the mystery firebug is at large today after starting his fourth year of depradations last night.

Property loss of several hundred thousand dollars is laid to him.

Quick work by volunteer firemen saved the F. A. Dey's cold storage plant last night after $3000 damage. The fire was branded as incendiary today.

Detectives have been here disguised as everything from fishermen to gasoline—even as detectives—without getting a clue to the firebug. Harry Kemp, the hobo author, has put him in his latest book, styling him Rosecrucian.

Mercury at 40 on Fall's Coldest Day

The mercury dipped to 40 in Boston at 1 a. m. today and remained there for five hours, making it the coldest day of the fall season. At 9 a. m. it had risen to 44. The official weather forecaster said the cold would not remain long, however.

His unofficial forecast for Boston and vicinity is: Fair and warmer tonight and Tuesday; moderate southwest winds.

'MY LIFE OR THEIRS' IN SLAYING OF TWO

Policeman Who Killed Youths in a Stolen Auto Tells of His "Ride of Agony"

"It was my life or theirs. I got my gun out when the car crashed. They were ready to fire. I shot and killed them."

[illegible] on a cot in Haymarket relief station, told today how he and death rode side by side on the running board of a careening stolen car with three auto thieves last night.

It was a ride of agony for Crickard, his left hand was jammed in the door. He clung to the windowsill with his right hand while one thief battled for his gun and the driver tried to "brush" him off against lamposts.

When the car crashed through a department store window in Tremont st., near Beacon, his mangled left hand was freed. He pulled his gun and shot Arthur McCarthy, 22, Mountain ave., Revere, and William J. Donovan, 25, of Wall st., Charlestown.

GIRLS FLEE CAR.

McCarthy was instantly killed with a bullet in his heart. Donovan died early today in the relief station on a cot a short distance from Crickard.

McCarthy is one of nine children of Mrs. Julia McCarthy, a widow. The family formerly lived in Charlestown.

Donovan is an orphan who lived with two sisters and a brother. He was only recently discharged from a hospital after treatment for tuberculosis.

"He was not a bad boy. He wasn't the kind of boy that carries a gun," his sister, Mary, said.

Search for the driver, who escaped, following the crash, resulted in the arrest of three young men as suspects. Two girls who fled from the car when the policeman approached it in Scollay sq. were being sought.

The youths arrested on suspicion are Thomas Brennick, 22, of Bunker Hill st., Charlestown, surrendered by his mother after police failed to find him at home, and Edward Bryson, 23, and John J. Donovan, 22, both of Medford st., Charlestown.

Donovan is no relation to the slain man. John M. Donovan, 29, a brother of the Donovan killed, was also arrested on suspicion but released later.

2 ESCAPE DEATH IN 50-FT. DROP

A Wakefield woman and girl escaped with cuts and bruises after a 50-foot plunge in an automobile to the Boston & Maine tracks today as two trains roared along.

Both trains were stopped only a short distance from the wreckage of the sedan, which landed upside down with the dazed woman and girl inside.

Mrs. Essie M. Pottle, 40, of Hanson st, a bride of three weeks, was driving her car in Myrtle ave., in the Greenwood section, with Dorothy K. Barton, 24, of North ave., Wakefield, as a passenger.

Fifty feet beyond the Cooper st. bridge Mrs. Pottle pulled over to the far side of the road to allow another car to pass. Her car went out of control, crashed through the fence and dropped to the tracks below.

An outbound train was speeding up the tracks, but Engineer Ralph W. Edwards jammed on his airbrakes and stopped a short distance away.

Knowing that another inbound train would round a curve 100 feet away and crash into the wreckage before the train could be stopped, Fireman L. R. Rhodes leaped to the roadbed and flagged the inbound train.

The woman and girl were sent to Melrose Hospital, where physicians were amazed to find no broken bones and only bruises and abrasions.

HOOVER RANKS YORKTOWN IN 'DECISIVE BATTLES'

"GAVE BIRTH TO NATIONAL FREEDOM"

President Pays Tribute to France and to U. S. Sympathizers in England

Yorktown, Va., Oct. 19 (AP)—Standing where once George Washington led a rugged force to a great victory, President Hoover today warned that in the face of "temporary dislocations" Americans must remember that similar obstacles had been overcome in the past as the nation swept forward to ever-increasing strength.

The President spoke on the hallowed ground into a battery of microphones. He said:

"Our Guests and My Fellow Countrymen:

"No person here present, no school child of the millions following in on this occasion, needs reminder of the significance of the battle of Yorktown. If we judge it by the standard of battles in which the contrary result would have been essentially varied the whole course of history, then it becomes one of the very few decisive battles in the history of the world.

TRIBUTE TO FRANCE

"In military history, Yorktown is distinguished as one of the great battles in which land and sea forces co-ordinated. The naval co-operation was furnished by France, herself also at war with Great Britain. For that co-operation we have held dear during these 150 years a grateful remembrance.

"That sentiment, continuing down through our history, finally flowered in the co-operation which the American people gave to France in their defense against an overwhelming enemy."

"The presence of Marshal Petain and Gen. Pershing here today symbolizes this second comradeship in arms, so magnificently begun by De Grasse, Lafayette and Rochambeau.

"We assemble here to celebrate a victory for our own independence, but not essentially a victory over any enemy. The long span of history will interpret the American war for independence and this battle more in the light of struggle amongst English-speaking people for the establishment in governmental form and extension of a common philosophy of human rights begun at Runnymede.

SYMPATHY IN ENGLAND

"The principales and ideals for which America contended had many adherents and much sympathy in England at that time. The victory of the Americans gave impulse to the new order throughout the world; and while the sovereignties of America and England definitely diverged at Yorktown, yet the march of the ideals for which the Americas fought also went forward and triumphed In England itself.

"The common acceptance of many of these principles has aligned the English-speaking people side by side for a century in peace, concord, sympathy and devotion to a liberty defined and assured under a reign of law. The triumph of these new ideas in America strengthened the impulses for liberty in France.

WASHINGTON EXALTED

"Our purpose today is to pay homage to a glorious event in our national history. Among many benedictions offered to us by this ceremony, one is renewed acquaintance with the spirit of George Washington. The campaign which led to its final culmax here established his military genius. It was the crown of victory which placed his name among the great commanders of all time.

"It is not too much to say that without Washington the war for Independence would not have been won.

NATIONAL MIND FREED.

"The primary national consequence of the independence we finally won here was the release of our national mind from all hampering restraints put upon us by subjection to another nation and an older civilization. Here America became free to be America.

"We acquired the opportunity for unrestrained development of a government and culture that should be our own.

"The unparalleled rise of America has not been the result of riches in lands, forests or mines; it sprung from the ideas and ideals which liberated minds and stimulated the spirits of men.

"In those ideas and ideals are the soul of the people. No American can review this vast pageant of progress without confidence and faith, without courage, strength and resolution for the future."

BIRTH OF U. S. RE-ENACTED

Yorktown, Va., Oct. 19 (AP)—This tiny village of history, today experienced its greatest thrill since Lord Cornwallis surrendered 150 yyears ago tot end the War of the Revolution.

Tens of thousands of Americans, distinguished foreign guests, members of the President's cabinet, governors, diplomatic officials and high ranking army and navy officers assembled to hear President Hoover deliver the sesquicentennial address and review, in company with Marshal Petain of France and Gen. Pershing, the re-enactment of the stirring drama that made Yorktown synonymous with the birth of the republic.

The four-day observance reached its peak with today's events, announced by a salute of 21 guns from an armada anchored in the York river, as the battleship Arkansas, bearing the President, drew into the stream.

SAME POSITIONS

The position was that of the fleet of Comte de Grasse in the memorable Yorktown battle, while upon the heights of Yorktown an immense stadium faced the trench-scarred terrain where the surrender was re-enacted and when President Hoover spoke.

French, British and American flags fluttered in the breeze, but the tri-color had replaced the fleur-de-lis of 150 years ago.

Practically the full strength of the naval scouting force held anchorage in the river, augmented by the French cruisers Suffern and Luquesne, and scores of private and commercial craft of every description. And to give colonial touch to the river, the once mighty frigate "Constitution," her sails furled, swung with the tide.

CROWDS BEAT CANDIDATES IN LONDON RIOT

Sir Oswald Mosley and J. H. Thomas Handled Roughly at Meetings

London, Oct. 19 (AP)—Football players and prizefighters were in demand today to act as valiant squires for beleaguered candidates as the last week of British election campaign turned the corner upon a trail of meetings featured by fisticuffs and pummeling.

Sir Oswald Mosley, founder of the British "New" party, took a bodyguard of gridsters and pugilists to a meeting of 15,000 in Birmingham last night, but he emerged without his guard and with several bruises and lacerations.

Chairs and bottles flew and police finally prevailed upon the speaker to accept a police escort away from the place.

J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions and colonies, was howled down at a meeting in Liverpool as he undertook to speak in behalf of Derwent Hall Caine, national labor candidate and son of the late Sir Hall Caine.

of candy, and the consumption of sugar.

Intelligent and successful makers of non-alcoholic drinks, who understand their business, do not fear any beer competition. In Montreal, where alcoholic beverages are permitted, the most successful non-alcoholic drink made in the United States sells, per capita, more than as much as in the United States.

The most successful of the non-alcoholic drinks, on which great industry is built, built their reputations and established success before prohibition arrived.

As for sugar and candy, if parents knew the importance of sugar and pure candy, to children, carefully and slowly eaten, well mixed with the saliva before swallowing, and if adults knew that sugar is a most important food, strengthening the muscles of the heart, especially, there would not be enough sugar to supply the demand, beer or no beer.

The "beer and light wine" question can be solved without worrying about sugar, or the non-alcoholic drink industries.

Brazil has debts, abroad, amounting to five hundred million dollars, has suspended payment of cash and will pay interest on the debt in scrip for the next three years, perhaps longer.

Scrip is not money, but Brazil must pay foreign obligations in foreign money, or gold, and cannot get either.

There is not enough gold in the world to supply the world's needs. About all the available gold has been collected by this country and France, and France is rapidly helping to lower our supply. How can other nations pay in gold when two nations have all the gold, and even the British Empire is compelled to suspend gold payments.

Fight for Charlestown!

Your Protest Will Count

More than 40,000 patriotic people of Boston and New England have signed a protest against the plan to abandon the Charlestown Navy Yard.

There is SOME PATRIOTISM, some LOVE OF COUNTRY, some appreciation of history, some regard for SOUND ECONOMICS among these people—and a dismal lack of these attributes among the headstrong time-servers at Washington.

Why abandon Charlestown?

Why not, if any, abandon the Pacific Coast stations where the President claimed residence during the few years of his adult life he was not abroad!

As a matter of fact, none of these stations should be abandoned or curtailed; they should be strengthened. As every man with common sense knows the naval defenses of the United States are below even their treaty strength.

They are, in fact, notoriously inferior to the defenses required by the richest and most affluent Nation in the world, and whose wealth and prestige are the envy of a world now torn by discord, rancor and rivalry.

Unless we can take care of ourselves, we can expect no one else to take care of us.

Let us save Charlestown.

Let us fight to save it.

By so doing we will be serving notice upon Washington officialdom that the American people are going to protect America.

Closing of the navy operations in and around Boston would mean adding thousands of men to the lists of the unemployed. It would mean the loss of millions of dollars in wages. It would increase the amount of suffering and misery in the community.

The administration at Washington talks MUCH about the perils of wage-cutting and cutting down of payrolls. Its action in proposing to close down its own activities at Charlestown shows how empty are its gestures toward relieving unemployment.

Every citizen of Boston and New England is virtually concerned in this unpatriotic action by the administration. The least any man or woman can do is to protest. Sign one of the protests now being circulated, or write either Senator Walsh or Senator Coolidge, or your Congressman, or Secretary of the Navy, Adams.

HOOVER 'SNUB' ANGERS MAYOR OF ANNAPOLIS

Presidential Car Sped Away Without Even a Nod to Greeting Committee

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—Official Annapolis is upset by failure of President Hoover to allow himself to be welcomed to the city last Saturday when he passed through on the way from Washington to board a battleship for the Yorktown celebration.

Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt wrote to the President today requesting an explanation. The welcoming party, he said, had gone to considerable pains to greet the Executive, but failed to get even a nod.

With Louis N. Phipps, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Joseph M. Armstrong, president of the Maryland Chamber of Commerce, and officers of luncheon clubs, the mayor failed for the Presidential party at the city limits, where arrangements to meet had been made with one of the President's aids.

When the caravan came by, it slowed down, but before the mayor and his party could reach the President's car, it gathered speed and continued into Annapolis.

FIRM BOOSTS ALL WAGES

Cleveland, O., Oct. 19 (US)—While some of the major industries about the country have been cutting wages, with the business situation as an explanation, one progressive Cleveland concern not only has maintained wage levels, but has jacked them up 15 per cent.

The concern is the S. K. Wellman Co. and the 15 per cent raise applies to all employes. J. T. Seaver, the vice-president, said.

The Wellman firm manufactures brake linings and similar equipment for use in industrial plants.

The company employs about 20 to 50 persons normally, and up to 100 at other times.

One of the unusual points in the wage increase is the fact that the commodities produced by the concern have been reduced 20 per cent in price.

Daughter of Calles Weds Doctor Tomorrow

Mexico City, Oct. 19—Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, again war minister of Mexico, has sent out more than 500 invitations to the civil marriage tomorrow of his 17-year-old daughter, Artemisa, to Dr. Joseph Jordan Elier, New York cancer specialist.

Plutarco Elias Calles

The marriage will take place at Calle de Anzures, the Calles home, and will be attended by persons high in the governmental service.

The couple will spend their honeymoon in England, France and Italy.

Josephine Dunn to Get Divorce Without Battle

Los Angeles, Oct. 19—Josephine Dunn, blonde film actress, and her husband, Clyde Greathouse, whom she characterized as a "playboy," have agreed on their disagreement.

Josephine Dunn

This was the substance of an announcement of Gordon W. Levoy, counsel for Miss Dunn, who stated the couple had reached a property settlement, and that today Greathouse will dismiss his divorce action.

His default will be entered on Miss Dunn's cross-complaint, permitting her to get an uncontested decree.

Veterans' Bonus Money Traced by Gen. Hines

New York, Oct. 19—Full and immediate payment of veterans' compensation was urged yesterday by Harold De Coe, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in an address before the organization's council of administration at the Army and Navy Club.

Gen. Hines

A letter from Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of the Veterans' Bureau, which is responsible for De Coe's action, asserted money received in the recent 50 per cent loans was well used.

Hines said he had found 65 per cent was spent for immediate family needs, 20 per cent invested in homes and other property, eight per cent spent for automobiles, and only seven per cent put to no practical use.

Mrs. Nellie Ross Launches Drive for Gov. Murray

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 19—Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former Governor of Wyoming and now vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will be the principal speaker tonight at Gov. Murray's "bread, butter, beans and bacon" campaign in which he expects to command recognition as a presidential factor.

Nellie Tayloe Ross

The meeting tonight, which opens the campaign, will draw leaders of the old and young divisions of the party from all over the state.

Elinor Smith Injured in Fall from Plane

New York, Oct. 19—Elinor Smith, youthful speed flier, suffered a wrenched back and sprained arm yesterday when she fell from her airplane while entertaining 15,000 air show patrons at Floyd Bennett Field.

Elinor Smith

Her Lockheed-Vega plane had flashed across the field at a speed of at least 150 miles per hour, and she had brought it down amid the plaudits in front of the grandstand. As she stood up in the open cockpit and prepared to alight, she lost her balance. The fall rendered her unconscious.

CAPONE WORRIED BY THOUGHT OF LONG TERM IN PRISON

GANG CHIEF TO HEAR HIS DOOM TOMORROW

Speculation Rife Over Length of Sentence to Be Given by Federal Judge

Chicago, Oct. 19—Prison doors yawn for Al Capone. His reign as the most powerful gang chieftain of modern times is nearing an end. He probably will be sentenced tomorrow by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on his conviction of attempting to defraud the United States government of income taxes.

The length of Capone's sentence was a matter of widespread speculation today, not only in Chicago but throughout the nation. The sentence will be one of the most significant pronouncements ever handed down from a federal bench in a criminal prosecution.

Judge Wilkerson has it within his power to put Capone behind the bars for seventeen years—or until he is 49 years of age. By that time the Capone of today would be but a memory to a new generation.

17 YEAR MAXIMUM

Capone is confronted with a possible maximum sentence of fifteen years in a federal penitentiary, plus two years in the county jail, and fines aggregating $50,000 on his conviction of three felonies and two misdemeanors.

The verdict was a stunning blow to Capone. It was a distinct shock to the Chicago underworld, where Capone was regarded as all-powerful. He had outlasted five chiefs of police and survived innumerable investigations and reform crusades. Up to now he had been Capone "The Immune."

It is the long prison term, not the fines, that is worrying Capone. The idea of a 17-year "stretch" is appalling to a man who has reached the affluence and enjoyed the luxuries that Capone has.

SEEK NEW TRIAL

Tomorrow Capone and his lawyers, Michael Ahearn and Albert Fink, will appear in Judge Wilkerson's court with pleas for a new trial and arrest of judgment. It is customary in the federal courts for a man under conviction to be sentenced immediately after such technical and routine motions are overruled.

The longest prison term given a gangster in an income tax case is five years and a day, imposed on Jack Guzik, Capone "financial secretary." Whether Judge Wilkerson will set a precedent by handing down a stiffer sentence in the case of Capone was the subject of considerable speculation today.

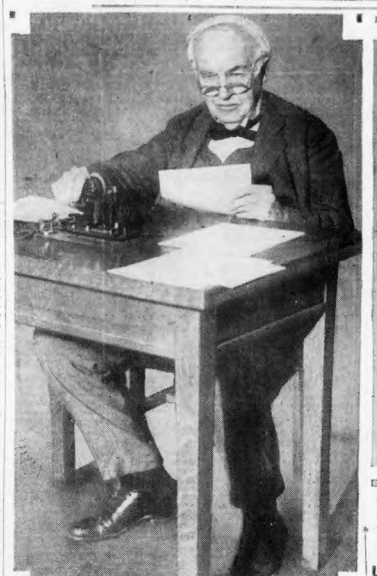
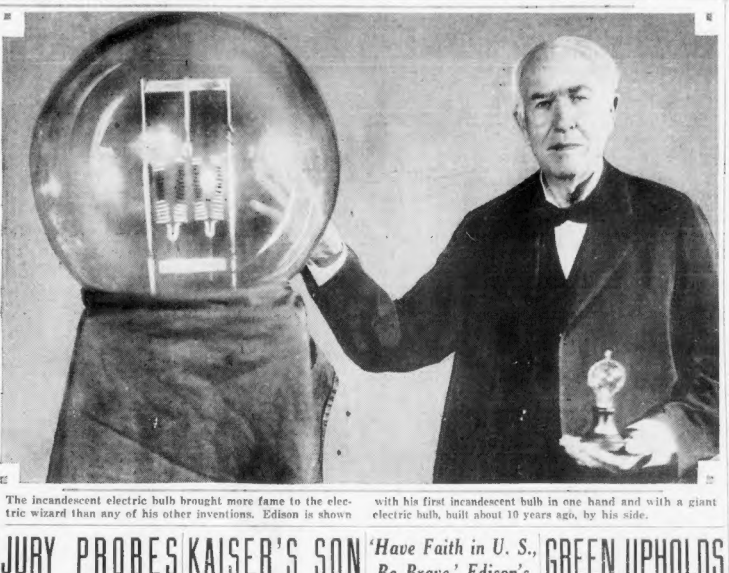
Japan Cables New Defiance of League and U. S. Entry



Thomas Edison, inventor, photographed several years ago at the telegraph key. It was as a telegraph operator that Thomas Edison started to develop his inventive genius.



The incandescent electric bulb brought more fame to the electric wizard than any of his other inventions. Edison is shown with his first incandescent bulb in one hand and with a giant electric bulb, built about 10 years ago, by his side.

GENEVA UPSET BY TWO NOTES FROM TOKIO

They Insist Upon Direct Negotiations With China Over Manchuria

Washington, Oct. 19 (AP)—The American government will join in invoking the Kellogg-Briand pact to stop Chinese-Japanese hostilities in Manchuria but is carefully refraining from taking a leading role, it was announced at the state department today.

Geneva, Oct. 19—The breach between Japan and the other powers here over Manchuria, the Alsace-Lorraine of the Far East, widened alarmingly today as the League of Nations Council held a secret session.

Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japan's spokesman, and Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese representative in Geneva, did not attend this private meeting.

Prentiss B. Gilbert, American consul-general, was seated, although the United States is not a member of the league.

Two notes received from Tokio had the effect of twin bombshells and caused an upset of plans here for a public council meeting. The first denounced Gilbert's presence at the council table and again demanded a date be fixed for decision on the legality of the invitation accepted by Washington.

The second note declared Tokio did not consider the Kellogg Pact, already invoked by the Council, applicable to the Manchurian situation, and offered a plan for direct negotiations between Japan and China.

12 Japs Slain in Clash, Says Mukden Dispatch

Mukden, Oct. 19 (US)—Twelve Japanese employes of an industrial company at Tungliao have been killed in fighting between Chinese and Mongols, according to a report today to Japanese military headquarters here.

Chinese soldiers have cut the Supingkai railroad line at three separate points, disrupting traffic along its entire length, it is charged.

JURY PROBES COLLINGS CASE

New York, Oct. 19 (US)—The first grand jury investigation into the pirate murder of Benjamin P. Collings in Long Island Sound Sept. 9 opened today at Riverhead, L. I., the seat of Suffolk County.

Announcement that the grand jury actually will consider the Collings mystery was made by Assistant District Attorney Frederick Munder of Suffolk County. It will be conducted by Munder and District Attorney Blue.

Munder declined to say whether Mrs. Collings, her daughter Barbara, or any of her relatives have been asked to appear. Since the last inquest into the murder, held Sept. 28, Mrs. Collings has been living in semi-seclusion. Mrs. Collings cannot be required to attend.

KAISER'S SON AIDS "REVOLT"

Brunswick, Germany, Oct. 19 (AP)—More than 100,000 brown-shirted followers of Adolph Hitler, fiery prophet of German Fascism, went home from here today after a field day, their ears ringing with Hitler's prediction that the German republic is soon to fall.

Clashes in which one man was killed and more than a score injured marked the week-end demonstration.

The "Nazi" chief attacked the government of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening that climaxed a parade in which the uniformed thousands marched, exchanging the Fascist salute, and requiring nearly seven hours to pass the reviewing stand. August Wilhelm, son of the former Kaiser, was on the platform.

'Have Faith in U. S., Be Brave,' Edison's Last 'Message'

New York, Oct. 19 (AP)—Last June, Thomas A. Edison spoke to the nation over the radio. It was his last public utterance and was marked by his usual brevity. He said:

"My message to you is: Be courageous! I have lived a long time. I have seen history repeat itself again and again. I have seen many depressions in business. Always America has emerged from these stronger and more prosperous.

"Be as brave as your fathers were before you.

"Have faith!

"Go forward"

GREEN UPHOLDS HEARST PLAN

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 19 (US)—Unqualified commendation of William Randolph Hearst's editorial declaration in favor of the six-hour day was expressed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in an interview today. He said:

"I commend highly the stand taken by Mr. Hearst and believe that the influence he exercises through his newspapers will play a constructive part in bringing this necessary and vital next step in industry to a realization."

In an address before a crowd that filled the civic auditorium this afternoon Green emphasized especially the necessity for the shorter work day and the shorter week to bring prosperity to the nation's industries.

TRUCE ENDS IN DOCK STRIKE

With the 48-hour "truce" between striking longshoremen and the steamship operators expiring today, the operators note a long conference, while the strikers waited to see if their demands for a hearing would be met.

John H. Levine, local agents of the American-Hawaiian line and chairman of the steamship operators committee, called the conference.

Steamship agents and Longshoremen's Union officials joined today in a probe of activities of racketeers who collected money from 500 negro strikebreakers for formation of a new local of the union.

It was revealed last night that two men have collected sums varying from $1 to $3 from more than 100. The men claimed they were "walking delegates" for a new local to take the place of Local 800, whose charter has been revoked by the international association.

Another investigation has also been launched following the revelation that a man, representing himself as the boss of a gang of 40 strikebreakers, had collected a $360 payroll and disappeared. When the real boss went to get the pay he was told he had already received it.

ROOF BLOWN OFF BY STILL BLAST

Millis, Oct. 18 (AP)—Fire, which officials said was accompanied by the explosion of a 500 gallon still, today destroyed the farm house of Timothy Sisdrow.

Persons living near the farm said there was a loud detonation and that the roof was blown off the farm house, after which the walls collapsed.

SUSPECT HELD AS FAKE OFFICER

Charged with attempted larceny of $1000 by posing as a detective sergeant, John Kimbell, alias John Klein, 37, was arrested today by Inspector John F. McCarthy.

Kimbell is alleged to have threatened to arrest Carl Lofgran of Warwick rd., Newton, on a fictitious charge, at the Massachusetts subway station, and then offered to release him on $1000 bail.

Lofgran went to his savings bank and got a check for $1000 which he gave to Kimbell without endorsement. Kimbell called at Lofgran's house for the endorsement today, according to the police, and was arrested.

NINE DEAD IN GERMAN MINE

Herne Westphalia, Germany, Oct. 19 (AP)—Almost the entire shift of 67 miners was temporarily entombed today at the Mont Cenis colliery near here by what was believed to have been an explosion of fire damp.

Although definite information of the number of deaths was unavailable, one report said that nine dead and 27 injured had been brought out of the mine by noon. Many of the miners, however, were known to have escaped unharmed. Several of the injured were suffering from severe burns.

All available physicians from neighboring territory were called and all rescue squads in the Ruhr Valley were summoned to render first aid.

Edison Wore $1.50 Suit of Clothes for 2 Years

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 19 (AP)—During the two years he worked here as a telegraph operator, Thomas A. Edison wore the same suit—and it cost $1.50, according to Z. T. Underwood, Jr., whose father worked with the inventor 65 years ago.

Underwood said his father refused Edison a $100 loan to buy material to experiment in telegraphy and electricity, although Edison promised him one-third of the profits from the inventions.

Bishop Has Anniversary

Springfield, Oct. 19—The Rt. Rev. Thomas Frederick Davies observed the 20th anniversary of his consecration as Protestant Episcopal bishop of the diocese of western Massachusetts yesterday.

CHINESE DELAY BONFIRE

Plans of Boston Chinese to burn Japanese goods at a ceremony in Chinatown are being held in abeyance until word is received from the national headquarters of the Chinese Nationalist party.

Chinese residents, anxious to display their hostility to the Japanese occupation of Manchuria, gathered all Japanese goods that could be found for the bonfire.

The goods will be burned in the middle of Oxford st, when the plans are completed. Chinese leaders in Boston yesterday sent telegrams to Chinese organizations in all parts of the country and Canada telling of the plans for the Boston bonfire and urging that similar demonstrations be held elsewhere.

GIRLS WITNESS CITIZEN OATH

Chaperoned by their instructor, Mrs. Louis J. Johnson, president of the Garland school and teacher of the citizenship class of that institution, 12 girl pupils sat in a jury box in federal court today and witnessed the oath of allegiance administered by Judge Morton to 150 men as new citizens of the country.

The girls listened to the court interpret naturalization laws to individuals who apparently had been confused in making out applications for citizenship papers. All nationalities were represented.

A large American flag in the rear of the judge's bench was the cynosure of all eyes when the valor of the men who defended it in battle in defense of the principles for which it stands was referred to by Judge Morton's address on the duty of citizenship.

A large number of men and women were administered the oath of citizenship in Judge James A. Lowell's session of the court.

Half Fare on Planes for Children

Chicago, Oct. 19—Half rates for children from three to 12 and free rides for children under three accompanied by their parents were announced today by Century Air Lines.

Surveys made by the company showed that fully 11 per cent of passengers flying in their planes during the past six months were under 12. The reduced rates were offered as an extra inducement for family rides.

Girl Vanishes While in Search of Work

New York, Oct. 19—Police today are seeking Miss Ida Lucie Fei, 17, daughter of Jules Fei, assistant to the president of the R. E. David Silk Manufacturing Co., who disappeared Friday after leaving her Long Beach, L. I., home to seek a position in New York city. She is a singer and an expert linguist.

Economic "Stick" of America Studied

New York, Oct. 19 (US)—Possible use of economic pressure by the United States against a nation making war in violation of treaties will be studied by a committee of business men, whose formation was announced by Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University.

Dr. Butler accepted the invitation of trustees of the Twentieth Century fund of New York to head the committee and appoint the members.

Glider Crashes Kill One, Injure Youth

Los Angeles, Oct. 18 (US)—Glider crashes took the life of one sail-plane enthusiast and seriously injured another during the week-end.

Victor Evans, 40, of Hollywood, died from injuries received when the wings of his craft folded up over Palos Verdes, and Don Stevens, 17-year-old Hollywood high school student, suffered four broken ribs and a fractured ankle when he steered his glider into the Redondo cliffs.

Man Near Death as Throat Tube Clogs

Keene, N. H., Oct. 19—A man found unconscious on the state highway, with a breathing tub in his throat clogged, identified himself as William Kent, 28, formerly of New Bedford, Mass.

Kent, who was revived at the Elliot Community Hospital, said he was walking from Buffalo, N. Y., to visit an uncle in Anson Me. He said the tube had been placed in his throat at the age of eight after an illness made necessary an artificial breathing device.

Wood Reports Gain in Rubber Business

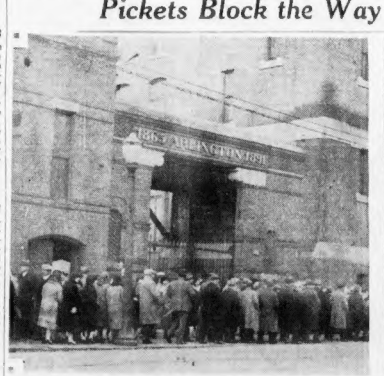
New York, Oct. 19 (AP)—Manufacturers of rubber goods throughout Europe report marked improvement in business, and look for continued gains, said Charles E. Wood today, after an extended trip abroad.

Mr. Wood, president of Charles E. Wood, Inc., rubber importers, was optimistic over the prospect of restriction of crude rubber production, and consequent improvement in prices.

Maine Farmer Ends Life by Hanging

Brunswick, Me., Oct. 19 (AP)—Napoleon Lachapelle, 60, a farmer committed suicide today by hanging himself in the barn. The body was found by members of the family when he failed to appear for breakfast.

Pickets Block the Way in Mill Strike as Ministers Aid Battle



"STRIKEBREAKERS SHALL NOT PASS"

Crowd of mill strikers swarmed round the entrance of the Arlington mill in Lawrence today to prevent any workers from entering. Picketing was general there, every striker being a picket.

MILITANT B. U. DIVINITY GRADUATES ON JOB

Leaders in the picket lines in the Lawrence mill strike today were ministers. Rev. Glenn Trimble and Rev. Arthur Fauss, both graduates of B. U. Theological School, are shown doing picket duty to aid the strikers, who are out against a wage cut. (Staff photos.)

BEACON HILL

—by—

Betty Alden

SPEAKING OF STEEPLECHASERS, MR. C. V. WHITNEY, nephew of Mrs. Payne Whitney, has a horse with the name of Beacon Hill, which was foaled and raised on the farm in Lexington which Mr. Whitney inherited from his father, the late H. P. Whitney. He ran in the Saratoga Steeplechase Handicap races and won in the 24th, which proved him a steeplechaser of note.

We motored out Lexington way yesterday to view the autumn foliage before the chill winter winds hurl it on the ground. Past meadows rich with feathery gorse, through aisles of golden maples, up hills of richest Burgundy elms and oaks, the sunshine dazzling in our eyes, we drove through historic Concord with its white church and Colonial dwellings, through sleepy villages until we wound up at the Groton Inn.

MRS. WILLIAM TUDOR GARDINER

This is the town so well known for the boys' school which many ambitious parents wish as a prep school for their sons. The Groton Inn was established in 1770, so the ancient sign reads, and is as rustic and charming as any we have ever visited. A faint smell of musk greeted us on the opening of the portal, and a bright open fire lured us into the living room as the drive was pleasantly cool.

Where Parents Meet Their Sons

WE WERE ASKED TO REGISTER IN THE HUGE BOOK, which holds the names of many prominent in the cultural life of the country. The panelled walls and beamed ceilings are real and speak of a history never entirely forgotten. The wallpapers are authentic and beautiful, pictorially, and many pieces of precious antique furniture fill the rooms which serve as reception and living rooms.

IT IS THE PLACE WHERE fathers and mothers meet at week-ends when they go up to see how the boys are getting on, or bring Jack up a new sweater or a box of home-made sweets. We saw many happy little reunions as we partook of an excellent dinner, among them Mrs. William Tudor Gardiner of Blaine House, Augusta, Maine, who looked as lovely as when she was Margaret Thomas a few years back. She wore the popular rust red crepe and a modish Empress hat with pheasant wing.

AFTER DINNER WE walked for a couple of miles along the lanes of Groton, through walnuts to a silvery pond to see the ripples break against the shore, helped ourselves to roadside orchards, and sang a hymn to the sun, and the blue sky and harvest season as we munched juicy apples. It was all very good for the soul, and we returned home feeling refreshed, rested and serene for what may come. Here is a tonic that all may share in these so ill times.

THE MISSES LYDIA AND Katherine Roth of Commonwealth ave. and Lakeville, have sailed for Europe, where they will remain for the winter studying in Paris. Their parents, the Arthur Roteches, have opened their town house.

MRS. ROBERT MURRAY and her two daughters have gone to France. Her son, Robert, Jr., is in prep school and Beatrice, another daughter, is in New York with the actress, Grace George.

THE LEWIS STOUGHTON BELLS are to remain in Cohasset for the winter. They have been visiting the Bells, Sr., family in that seaside town. Cohasset is a very popular place for young marrieds to begin domestic life. The Langford Warrens, the Paul Reveres, the Taggard Whipples, the Cox Bells, Jr., Jessie Cox will miss her pal, Virginia Agree Bishop and her husband, as they have rented their waterfront house and with their young son will live abroad this season.

GIRLS GOING TO COLLEGE this fall, their debutante year, must not be expected to be taken into the Junior League on the first election—it is never done.

MR. AND MRS. G. G. CROCKER, JR., are to spend the winter with their young son atop of granny's house, Mr. and Mrs. Davenport Brown, at 390 Beacon st. There will be a lot of doubling up this winter, we imagine, and no doubt it may add much to the happiness of parents and their children.

WE HEAR THAT ELEANOR FROTHINGHAM has had so many SHOWERS given in honor of her coming marriage to Mr. Brown, showers of undies, handkerchiefs, linen, stockings, and all the rest of it, that her FRIENDS are wondering if it would not be well to buy such frillies in wholesale lots and thereby save the elusive dollar.

DEBUTS TOP WEEK'S CALENDAR

FAIR OCTOBER BRIDE

MRS. WILLIAM LLEW ROGERS (Persis Worcester) arriving at the church in Cambridge Saturday where she was married by her father, Dr. William Worcester of that city.

Miss Swift to Be Honored at Concord Tea

Debutante affairs begin this week with a tea at the Concord Country Club tomorrow, which will be given by Mrs. Howard P. Swift in honor of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Frothingham Swift. A group of sister-debs will do the serving, headed by a post-deb, Miss Elizabeth Bosley.

In this group are included the Misses Sally Ives, Molly Harlow, Julia Jenkins, Mary Loring, Nancy Swift, Hope Hubbard, Dorothy Stone, Sylvia Cleveland, Grace Roberts and Mary Beaman. There will also be a few older girls of last year's deb group, among them Miss Ruth Brooks, Miss Edith Wheeler, Miss Louise Howe and Miss Frances Gardiner. Mrs. Swift will probably give something more formal for her daughter later on in the season.

Make Bow at Dance

Two more debs who make their bow to the world this week will do it in one grand fling on Wednesday—Miss Katrina Hartt and Miss Barbara Howes, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley N. Hartt and Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Howes, respectively. This affair will be at The Country Club in Brookline, with an ushers' dinner preceeding it.

The usher group will be headed by Alexander Donald, and included are Albert Nickerson, Jr., Guy Hayes, LeGrande Thurber, T. Denise Pratt, Andrew Hepburn, Oakley Brooks, Thomas Rogers, Prescott Bigelow, Jr., Laurence M. Channing, Chester King, Robert Bulkley, John H. Harwood, Walter Kellogg, John Hartt, Thomas Knowles, George Waterman, Alfred S. Hartwell, Waldo Howland, George Shaw, J. Mott Hallowell, Edward Little, John Russell, Nathan Talbot, James S. Dennison and Walter and David Bailey.

This will be one of the gayest of the dances so far, and we wish the two debs, who are both among the new provisional group of Junior Leaguers, lots of luck.

Miss Hall's Debut

That's three, and here's a fourth for the week's calendar, Miss Rosamond Hall, daughter of the Gardiner Halls of Marlborough st., who will present her at a tea dance on Friday at the Algonquin Club. The Halls have already brought one charming daughter out, Miss Dorothy Hall, who is now engaged to "Beau" Horace Partridge. She will head the pourers for the tea.

Fur Borders on Many Sleeves

By ANN ARDEN

FOR DRESSES that are worn at all hours of the day sleeves that are bordered with fur are smart. This means sleeves that are widely cuffed above the wrists.

SLEEVES are of extreme importance, and the elaborate sleeve seems peculiarly appropriate to the formal afternoon frock, that costume so difficult to find, and so necessary to the woman past debutante age. An example of perfect taste, and discreet elaboration is the afternoon gown pictured.

HEAVY SILK crepe in "Trumpet" shade, a deep rust, is the material, the skirt showing groups of pleats stitched to knee depth, and topped by a wide girdle tying about hips to sash bow. The V neck is outlined in band of gold embroidery. There is a wrist-fitting under sleeve, the over-sleeve elaborately embroidered in gold and banded in mink fur. The matching felt toque has its brim folded to bow center back, achieving a sculptured line. The bag is brown suede, with gold clasp and ornament.

* * *

THIS COSTUME is the embodiment of good taste for wearing to luncheon, to matinees and to tea during this season of formality in afternoon attire.

Titled Couple Like the West

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER

New York, Oct. 19 (US)—Since acquiring, six years ago, the titles and estates of the Earls of Portsmouth, the present Lord and Lady Portsmouth have made but little change in their mode of life.

They continue to spend almost six months of every year in the low, rumbling shingle house out in Big Horn, Wyo., where they made their home for a number of years before being elevated, by the death of the fourth Earl of Portsmouth, to their present high rank in the British peerage.

And, having spent more than 40 of his 70 years in the wilds of Wyoming and Montana, Lord Portsmouth, who is known to the natives of the Yellowstone country as Oliver Wallop (pronounced Galop), feels more at home in the vicinity of Big Horn than in Bond st., and Piccadilly.

PRISCILLA PRICE COUNTS THE SCORE ON— FOOTBALL FASHIONS

Dearest Anne:

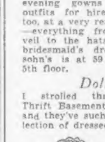
Here are the exciting new fashions and values I've found for you to wear to the game next Saturday—

Evening Gowns, $1!

After the game comes that question of what to wear to the dinner or dance. And isn't it lucky that Mendelsohn's is having another clearance sale of those beautiful, slightly used evening gowns for $1 and up. At this ridiculously low price any girl can afford two or three dresses and be attractively gowned in a different style for every party. Some of these dresses are worth many times this price; many are exquisitely cut and made, and are of a kind that most of us could not afford to buy except at such a sale. Mendelsohn's have also new evening gowns and wedding outfits for hire and for sale, too, at a very reasonable charge—everything from the bride's veil to the hats matching the bridesmaid's dresses. Mendelsohn's is at 59 Temple Place, 5th floor.

Dollies

I strolled through White's Thrift Basement again today—and they've such a beautiful selection of dressed dolls! Why I wanted to pick one up and play with it. I really did as a matter of fact and did discovered that they are completely dressed! They have crisp organdie bonnets, an organdie dress to match, socks, and moccasins and best of it all—rubber panties! Here's an item which is sure to make a hit with the kiddies and thrifty folks are buying them now for Christmas gifts . . . they are only $2.29! Another nice feature about these dolls, is that they are unbreakable! They're so life like and irresistible, they can't help making a hit with the kiddies . . . They make you want to own one yourself! It's a good idea to get your name listed and there's sure to be a last minute rush for them—Christmas isn't as far away as you think. Remember—they're to be found in White's Thrift Basement.



You Wouldn't Know

Kay since she had her hair "done" with Inecto dye, my dear! Honest, I hardly recognized her when she came out of the Houghton & Dutton Beauty Shop yesterday, looking at least 20 years younger and feeling mighty proud of her beautiful brown hair. Inecto seemed to bring out the beauty that her hair showed in high school days before it became faded and streaked with gray. They are experts at applying Inecto at this shop, you know, and they give you instructions on exactly how to use it at home yourself, if you prefer. I want to remind you again of those marvelous Komplex rinses featured by this shop at $1.50—You may buy this for home use for only $1 a jar! This is the place, by the way, where they are giving beautiful permanent waves for only $5 now. Don't forget it—Houghton & Dutton Beauty Shop, second floor.

Jean Never Looked

so charming as she does now all ready for the season's gaieties after a session with Miss Elizabeth Sparkes. No matter how smartly she dressed she wasn't attractive with those unlovaly dark hairs on her upper lip—but you should see the difference in her appearance now! And she gives Miss Sparkes the credit for her new social success, too! She told me she knew she was in the hands of an expert the moment Miss Sparkes began taking out those superfluous hairs with such a sure, steady hand—and she bisesses the day she went to her. Consultation on your individual problems is free, and you'll find Miss Sparkes interested in each client and anxious to help you. For appointment Tel. Han. 7992. Miss Sparkes is at 120 Tremont St., Rm. 334.

Fur Coat Special Today

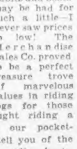
Your blood may race with excitement when your favorite halfback makes a thrilling run—but even that won't be enough to keep you warm. I've found something at Filene's that will! Think of it. Anns, undies, knitted of soft wool and bombers which you know is glorified rayon—shaped to fit perfectly with the svelte smoothness that is so essential! Even at the waistline there are no ridges, for the top of the panties is of firm elastic. And notice the edge of the panties—they will not fray or run! They are called "Vassarettes" — and, oh, yes, there are lisle sets as well as the delightful wool ones I've told you about. The woolen coats are $3.50 and the panties $4. The lisle are priced at $2.50 for each garment. You'll love these Vassarettes, for they'll keep you warm and comfy while riding horseback, playing those hectic fall days, and, of course, for the "games" and winter sports! And how they fit—actually "like paper on the wall," to use a well-worn expression! You'll find them in the Knit Underwear Shop, street floor. As long as we're on the subject of comfort plus style, let me tell you about the gorgeous new woolen and hand-knitted ascots in all the gay college colors. They are priced at only $2 and $3 in Filene's Neckwear Shop, also on the street floor. They are positively the best-looking and the gayest ascots I've ever seen!

Riding Togs

Riding horseback need no longer be the sport of Kings or the exclusive pastime of the wealthy, for anyone can afford to ride these days, when smart riding habits and boots may be had for such a little—I never saw prices so low! The Merchandise Sales Co. proved to be a perfect treasure trove of marvelous values in riding togs for those of us who thought riding a pleasure beyond our pocketbooks. Let me tell you of the "finds." Women's riding boots, styled in the English manner, in brown and black, sizes 4 to 6, are marked to close out at only $9.85! Swanky riding boots, amur fitting, for $5.95. Jodpurs at $6.95, made of the finest calf leathers, lined with kid; Whipcord Breeches, right in quality and style, priced so reasonably at $3.95; tailored coats, all sizes, light or dark tweeds, at only $12.98. Don't forget—the place to get your smartest riding togs —The Merchandise Sales Co. at 37 Essex Street, near Washington street.

No Matter What the Occasion

demands of your wardrobe, you'll find just the smart little frock that you need in the L. P. Rogers dress department—the place where Fashion and value meet. They have the most fascinating collection of wool crepes, Jerseys, Canton, marked at only $5.85—frocks that are perfect for school, the office, or shopping. Nowhere else have I seen such lovely new wools, cantons, satins, velvets, or knitted frocks and suits, as in this shop, and they are priced to suit any budget—at $10.00. They are all copies of much higher priced dresses and come in all the new shades —all sizes 14-20, 38-46. Spanish Tile, black with light contrasts, browns, new blues and greens. The October bride will appreciate this shop for its complete selection of dresses and veils for herself and attendants. Before you buy your Fall wardrobe, visit L. P. Rogers & Son, 41 Winter St. Open evenings until 7 for the convenience of the working girl.



I Know We'll

spend all our spare time (and some that isn't) a-shopping next week, because we'll want to look our best next Saturday at the game. Did you know that Peggy and Jack are coming along with us—won't that be nice? And we are all having dinner together, too! Really, I am thrilled. Virginia says she is looking forward to wearing her perfectly stunning new outfit almost as much as the game—and I am, too. You really can't imagine, because you are not with me during the week, what fun I have when I am finding the shops for us to visit on our weekly shopping tour. Drop me a note—and let me know what day you are coming in town.

Devotedly,

Do You Know

Where to get the most for your money when buying a new dress? Do you know that the New York Dress Mfg. Co is the place? Do you know that they sell thousands of the newest fall models at the lowest prices in Boston, because they specialize in only in dresses and coats and sell them retail at wholesale prices and less? Unless you have visited their big showrooms at 515 Washington St. (upstairs) you couldn't believe such beautiful frocks in Canton crepes, fine French woolens and jerseys, satins and knit suits could be sold for such low prices. Also coats, also a group of party dresses that will amaze you! All their dresses are arranged in three main price groups—$7.00, $8.75 and $8.75. In sizes 12-20 11-19, 14½ to 36½, 36-46. They will give you any dress in the house free if you can duplicate it in any other store at their price. Exchanges and refunds within 3 days if price tag has not been removed. New York Dress Mfg. Co., 515 Washington St. Opposite R. H. White Co.

HOUSE CONTROL AGAIN EVEN BY DEATH

Washington, Oct. 19 (AP)—Republican and Democratic strength for the control of the next House stands evenly divided.

The death yesterday of Representative Ernest R. Ackerman a New Jersey Republican, left the lineup as follows:

Republican, 214; Democrats, 214; Farmer Labor, 1; vacancies, 6.

Five vacancies, two normally Democratic, are to be filled at special elections Nov. 3. Gov. Larson of New Jersey is expected by Republicans here to call a special election to fill the vacancy in the normally Republican Fifth District before Congress convenes, Dec. 7. Atty. Gen. Stevens of New Jersey believes, however, there is not sufficient time.

'SHOT TO SAVE LIFE,' SAYS COP

said. "I walked over to question them.

"There were two men in the front seat and a fellow and two girls in the back. As I approached the car from the right side the girls opened the door on the other side and walked rapidly away.

"I could have stopped them and questioned them but I was afraid the car would get away if I did so.

"I stepped up to the open door of the car and I had hardly started to ask about license and registration when the fellow sitting alongside the driver slammed the door on my fingers, jamming them, and said to the driver, 'Step on it.'

"The car started, and I was jerked onto the running board. We tore through the square into Tremont and took the right turn.

IN GREAT PAIN

"I was suffering great pain from the fingers of my left hand up to my shoulder. I was obliged to hold on with my right hand or have my fingers torn off.

"The driver said, 'Get off the car or I'll plug you' and pulled a gun with one hand. I couldn't have gotten off if I'd wanted to. They didn't realize my hand was caught.

"At high speed the car was swung close to the right curb as they tried to sideswipe lamp-posts and hurl me off. It was a ride of agony.

"One of them reached through the window and tried to get my gun but I pulled my body back, and struck at him with my right hand. I thought of my wife and kids and thought it was all up with me.

KNOCKED OFF IN CRASH

"When the car crashed through the window, the impact knocked me off the running board but my hand was still caught. I opened the door with my right hand.

"The driver was about to fire when I pulled my gun. The first shot hit the fellow beside the driver; he slumped against the windshield. The man in the back seat appeared to be drawing a gun and I fired [illegible] and shot. Then I passed out.

"My brain was in a turmoil. I was in such pain that I thought I had been shot. It was my life or theirs and I let them have it."

Crickard is a war veteran. He lives with his wife and two children in South st., Jamaica Plain. Besides the crushed hand he suffered a chest injury in the crash that may keep him in the hospital sometime.

The car was the property of Harry Minsky of Essex st., Chelsea. It had been reported stolen several hours before the shooting.

CULT TOO WILD FOR HER

Many things happen in Chicago, but the police say the strangest is a cult ruled by Guiseppi Maria Abbate, known as the "Celestial Messenger." The male members have costumes something like Bible characters, armed with spears and swords. But this girl, Lucia Vitiello, 15, says the girls are given pretty dresses and caresses. She told her father what happened to her, and the police want the "king" to explain. (International News photo.)

MONEY TALK IS REFUTED IN 'GRAFT' TRIAL

Lawrence, Oct. 19—Contradicting government witnesses, William Foley opened the defence of Alderman John W. McCarthy, head of the city department of engineering, and two employes, by testifying today that no money was mentioned at the department meeting described at the trial last week.

Foley, a city employe 24½ years, said the talk was of labor organization rather than political, and that no one was asked to contribute to campaign funds or pay for jobs.

TELLS ON TRIAL

McCarthy, John F. Sullivan, a foreman carpenter, and Joseph M. Birnehart, clerk, are on trial in Superior Court.

Under direct examination by Atty. Edward Tierney, counsel for Alderman McCarthy, the witness Foley said he knew Dennis Fitzpatrick, a government witness last week, and that he had some talk with him.

"I was present at the meeting Alderman McCarthy had with the street department employes shortly after he took office," he said. "He gave a talk of six or seven minutes, in which he said the men were doing fine work and had a good organization. He said we were to do a 'he-man' job for the city.

MENZIE ALSO SPOKE

"Alderman McCarthy made no suggestion of any expenses incurred by him during the campaign and did not mention the name of either Reinhart or Sullivan.

NO DRINKS, NOW NO FOOD

WILL ROGERS ON 'PROBLEMS'

Los Angeles, Oct. 19 (AP)—What does prohibition amount to, in solving Will Rogers, "if your neighbors children are not eating?"

"What does all this yapping about disarmament amount to," the humorist also wants to know, "compared to our own people that haven't worked in two years?"

This was his way of getting at the idea that unemployment is the country's foremost problem, in a radio speech late yesterday, supplemental to President Hoover's appeal over the air for contributions to local relief funds.

Speaking from Station KFI of the N. B. C. chain, Rogers said:

"It's food, not drink, that's our problem now. We were so afraid the poor people might drink. Now we fixed it so they can't eat."

He was referring particularly to what he called the "cockeyed" situation in which "there is an abundance of food supplies, but yet we are starving to death."

Referring to the unemployed, he said:

"Don't wait for the government to feed these people. . . . I don't know anything about America being fundamentally sound and all that after-dinner hooey, but I do not that America is fundamentally generous.

"Mr. Hoover has done some splendid work for us lately. He rounded up the bankers and told them if the wanted to continue to get 8 and 10 per cent from the yokels they better start letting out some dough without the security of a right eye and three ribs. He told 'em to melt some frozen assets. A frozen asset is just a banker's mistake. Anyhow, he sent 'em renewing notes.

"So now things are different. Everybody is holding their own. In fact, that's just what's the matter with the country. Everybody is holding their own—and won't let go. . . .

"It ain't really depression. We are just getting back to earth and it don't look natural to us anymore. We are back to rabbit meals and cotton underwear and off the $1.50 steaks and silk under-rompers. The trouble with us is America is fat muscle-bound from holding a steering wheel."

Capt. Dollar Put on List With Immortals

New York, Oct. 19 (AP)—Capt. Robert Dollar, dean of America's shipping men, is now an honorary member of the historic Marine Society of New York. The society, founded in 1769, has for its honorary list such individuals as George Washington, Alexander Hamilton, Charles E. Hughes and Calvin Coolidge.

CREDIT POOL TO EASE MONEY

Washington, Oct. 19 (INS)—Two important financial developments are expected this week—assurance of completion of the $500,000,000 bankers' pool of the National Credit Corporation and further increases i nthe federal reserve rediscount rates.

The reserve system's new rate, started by the New York Reserve Bank, is now 3½ per cent, including the Boston, Cleveland and Chicago banks.

When the credit corporation gets in full swing officials here believe that restored confidence will ease the money market.

Bandit Feeds Baby as Three Victims Cower in Bed

Chicago, Oct. 19—Two robbers proved that three's a crowd when they forced Dr. Maurice N. Knopp, his wife and their maid to take their Sunday morning snooze in the same bed.

At the point of their guns, the maid, Edna Conn, led the two robbers to the doctor's room. From there they moved over to Mrs. Knopp's bedroom.

"I haven't a thing to wear," she said.

"Stay there," the intruders ordered. "Doctor, you climb in."

They looked at the maid. She blushed, and said:

"I have to feed the baby."

"I'll feed the baby," said one.

"Climb in."

While one of the two robbers fed the baby its oatmeal, the other ransacked the house.

WILLIAMS HELD IN JAIL

Joel Clifton Williams, Harvard graduate and former schoolmaster, held on charges that he stole books from the Widener library of Harvard University, remained in the East Cambridge jail last night in default of the $500 bail necessary for his temporary freedom.

It was revealed yesterday by Cambridge police that he rejected their suggestion that he accompany inspectors to Harvard sq. in search of "Hendricks," the man he claims "sold" him the books that filled a five-ton automobile van when they were taken from his home in Dedham to the Widener library Friday.

He pleaded, according to the police, that he would be recognized and that he could not stand the eyes of people looking at him.

"The Road to Singapore" on Screen at Uptown and the Olympia

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

Warners have done very well, indeed, by William Powell. In his initial picture under their auspices, they first of all assigned their ace director, Alfred E. Green, maker of "Disraeli," one of the best of all the talkies, to do the honors for their newly acquired star. Then they threw in a lot of good talent for support. True, the story is nothing to brag about, but "The Road to Singapore," thanks to expert attention by all hands, proves highly entertaining.

The dapper actor, ever perfect in being the most engaging of gentlemanly villains, is again the conqueror of all womankind. Leaving a trail of hearts more or less broken, he is off for Ceylon. Aboard ship he falls for the first fair specimen that traipses in sight on the promenade deck. It happens to be Doris Kenyon, outward bound to wed Cosla Calhern. But the beautiful Doris is unreceptive—as yet. But later—zowie! In the land of tea and elephants and tom-toms, she finds life a bore, and bigger more of a bore; so she falls hard for the pursuing bold, bad wooer, which Powell always is, a suit in sheep's clothing who always wins.

The entrancing Doris is plainly infatuated. She has a sister-in-law, Marian Marsh—Boston lassie, as you all know—she tries her wiles on Powell, but the wife has an older head and wise ways with man, and she has an easy lead. Powell invites her to his bungalow, and she accepts. But the husband hears of it and goes into a grand rage. His spouse spurns him and announces she is sailing for Singapore, no less. Whereat, up rises the pursuing villain and says he will do likewise.

Presumably, the road to Singapore winds its way into a divorce court, and eventual happiness.

No great shakes of a yarn—theme outworn, motivation rather frail; and yet the superb Powell makes his role breathe the breath of life. He is the most engaging Lothario one could meet in a year of blue moons; and Miss Kenyon lends a charm to the movie that is a treat. Miss Marsh does well enough.

Sally Rand, a beautiful star of the silent screen, is at the Orpheum this week in a dancing act.

'Skyline' and 'Wicked' Features at Fenway and Modern

The Fenway and Modern this week show two first-run pictures, one, "Skyline," an excellent human interest drama, with Thomas Meighan, and the other, "Wicked," story built on the mother love theme and starring Elissa Landi.

Thrilling episodes punctuate "Skyline," which the principal roles are portrayed by Meighan, Hardie Albright, Maureen O'Sullivan, Myrna Loy and Donald Dillaway. It tells of a friendless boy who climbs from the city's depths to luxury by sheer pluck, after he meets and falls in love with a beautiful girl of the tenements.

Meighan enacts the role of a dynamic builder of skyscrapers, who, in the end, turns out to be the boy's father.

Elissa Landi, in "Wicked," is seen in the role of a young wife, who on her honeymoon finds her hopes and happiness go on the rocks when she learns that her husband is a bank robber. She sees him die from a pursuing detective's bullet and later finds herself in prison convicted of being his accomplice.

The state grants her a short reprieve so her baby may be born beyond prison walls, and then takes it from her. Her efforts to regain her child later makes for some good screen drama.

Orchestra in Jordan Hall Concert

By MOSES SMITH

The People's Symphony orchestra, under Thompson Stone, began its 12th season in Jordan Hall yesterday, with an audience of auspiciously good size in attendance. A program of standard works from the symphonic repertory included a ballet suite from Rameau's operas, arranged by Motti, Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony, the Liszt A major piano concerto and Chabrier's brilliant orchestral rhapsody, "Espana." Heinrich Gebhard played the solo part of the concerto.

The orchestra, which seemed to have undergone some changes of personnel, including a notably diminished 'cello section, gave in its performances evidences of frequent rehearsing.

The pace of the opening of the Liszt Concerto was so slow, indeed, that Mr. Gebhard, with the best will in the world, could hardly spread out his arpeggiated passage work in order to stay with the orchestra. The pianist played with his familiar virtues, on the whole more sensitively than in his earlier appearances. A greater quantity of tone would have served him well in the brilliant sections. But if the performance failed to strike fire, it was not the soloist who was accountable, but Mr. Stone, whose accompaniment was labored.

Sterling Bill at the Boston

By HARRIS MORGAN

All in the spirit of fun! That's the cue to the bill at the RKO Boston this week, where comedy runs riot on both stage and screen. The vaudeville is sterling fare, while on screen Edna May Oliver establishes her right to stardom by getting generous laughs out of the lines and business of "Fanny Foley Herself."

The variety headline honors are split between Johnny Burke and Rita Gould Burgess. Burke has a mirth-filled sketch in which he parades in Doughboy uniform and squeezes gallons of humor by his jokes about the army and a lot of other things. Miss Burgess is a superb singer, whose numbers all go over big. Each of the topliners score a triumph. Other RKO artists on the program are Al B. White, star in his own right and shining in a sketch, "The Raid"; Jessie Maker and Billy Redford in a skit, "The Bartender," and the highly comic "Two Broken Toys," presented by George Brown and Harry King.

On screen, Miss Oliver portrays "Fanny Foley Herself," a vaudeville headliner, internationally loved and celebrated. She marries the son of a multi-millionaire who is disinherited and scorned because of it. Daughters come, Fanny supports them and the husband in luxury. Her salary is ample. Then the husband dies and Fanny finds that the exclusive school her daughters attended expanded their ego rather than their intelligence. Her efforts to become a social queen are ludicrous in the extreme but her fight to regain the love and respect of her foolish daughters sounds the depths of pathos.

Johnny Weismuller Signs Contract to Star in M-G-M's 'Tarzan'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

New York, Oct. 19—If you have ever watched the agile Johnny Weismuller, world's champion swimmer, do his stuff under water, you can understand why Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is pleased at bringing him to the screen. Mr. Weismuller, who puts the well known duck to shame when he does his fancy strokes and his 57 varieties of dives, will play the starring role in "Tarzan."

Louella O. Parsons

For months Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has been looking for a youth with the right physique to create Edgar Rice Burroughs' famous character in the talkies. To my knowledge, 50 tests were made before Irving Thalberg and W. S. Van Dyke found the right Tarzan.

Johnny Weismuller is one of the most important figures in the sporting world to enter motion pictures. His wife, Bobby Arnst, well known in musical comedy circles, was an interested lookon when her husband made a test for "Tarzan," which is scheduled as one of M.-G.-M.'s big numbers.

Seen and Heard:

There were no interviews with Ronald Colman nor any announcements of his arrival in New York. Ronnie, with his customary shyness, walked right in and out again. He sailed for Europe without so much as saying hello to any of his friends. He did register last delight over "Arrowsmith," however, before he left for his home in England. I met Larry Grey lunching with a friend. Larry is in the Ed Wynn show and if N-e-w York doesn't discover him as a potential musical comedy favorite I'll be surprised. Wonder why some of our film producers don't call him back to Hollywood, now that musical comedies are in the ascendant.

Few actresses could reject an offer to play in a picture in which Ernest Lubitsch had a part. Most of them, at least those with sense, feel it is a real opportunity to get some Lubitsch training. He is surprising Chevalier's next.

Genevieve Tobin

Genevieve Tobin, Universal's favorite actress, has consented to play a second lead in "One Hour With You," opposite Maurice Chevalier, probably because she feels it is a real opportunity. Jeanette MacDonald has the feminine lead.

The annoyance Constance Bennett admitted that she felt toward her father Richard Bennett, at the date he furnished her biographer, will not prevent her from discussing his next picture with him. He has been signed to play the lead in "Second Chance," for Paramount. "Second Chance" is none other than "The Goose Hangs High," which in its silent version served Constance Bennett as a Paramount vehicle several or more years ago. Now that Dick is to play in the self-same play with talkie additions, he and Connie will get together and talk shop. Marjorie Gateson, Peggy Shannon and Buddy Rogers are the other players who will appear with Bennett here.

After all these months, "Peck's Bad Boy" is to be a reality in the talkies. Ever since Sol Lesser decided to produce pictures independently he has had the bee in his bonnet to bring the well known American classic to the screen. He has owned the rights for several years but not until he formed the Motion Picture Guild of America has he had an opportunity to produce it. Katherine Hilliker and H. H. Caldwell are writing a story to fit the title. Another piece of news of interest is the signing of Chic Sales by Radio to make a series of six short subjects to be produced by Louis Brock and directed by Mark Sandrich.

Sh, sh, don't tell I told you, but Lupe Velez is sailing on the Ile De France Oct. 23. Of course she is going to see Jack Gilbert, and why not? Lupe is still admitting a yen for him and from last reports he wasn't indifferent to her. Lupe was the cynosure of all eyes when she walked into the opening of a theater the other night. She wore an extremely decollet'ee dress of lavender velvet with cost to match.

MAYOR JAMES WALKER arriving late at the theater after making a speech at the opening of "The Spirit of Notre Dame." EVERETT JACOBS, well known in the film colony both in New York and Los Angeles, at the theater with an extremely pretty girl. JOSEPH SANTLEY glimpsed at the theater, also LUPE VELEZ in lavender dress cut decollette. That's all today, see you tomorrow.

Prizes Offered for Macaroni Recipe

From Martha Lee's Monday Morning Broadcast Over Station WAAB

HERE'S OUR good news for the day! A new recipe contest with lots in cash prizes!

The C. F. Mueller Company was so delighted with the thousands of splendid recipes sent in by our readers to the three Mueller contests previously conducted in this paper, that they have decided to repeat their generous prize offer. And in addition to the money prizes for macaroni and spaghetti recipes, there will be a special prize of a Macaroni Timer, as well as a beautiful new book of macaroni and spaghetti recipes awarded to every contestant, whether you win a cash or merchandise prize or not.

Martha Lee

There are two distinct contests—one for the best recipes using macaroni and one using spaghetti.

SIMPLE RULES

The rules have been made extremely simple by the Mueller Company and must be followed accurately.

1—Each contestant may submit as many recipes as she wishes, calling for macaroni or spaghetti.

2—A part of the wrapper of a Mueller package must be enclosed with your recipe.

3—Write on one side of the paper only. Be sure your name and address are on each sheet of paper you submit. This is important.

4—Mail recipes to Macaroni Contest Editor, care of the Boston Evening American.

5. The contest closes at noon on November 9.

6. The names of the winners will be announced as soon after that date as is possible.

THE PRIZES

MACARONI CONTEST

First Prize—Twenty Dollars in cash and one dozen assorted packages of Mueller's products.

Second Prize—Ten Dollars in cash and six assorted packages of Mueller's products.

Third Prize—Five Dollars in cash and six assorted packages of Mueller's products.

Fourth Prize—Three Dollars in cash and three packages of Mueller's Products.

Twelve Prizes of one dollar each in cash and two packages each of Mueller's Products.

SPAGHETTI PRIZES

First Prize—Twenty Dollars in Cash and one dozen assorted packages of Mueller's Products.

Second Prize—Ten Dollars in Cash and six assorted packages of Mueller's Products.

Third Prize—Five Dollars in Cash and six assorted packages of Mueller's Products.

Fourth Prize—Three Dollars in Cash and three packages of Mueller's Products.

ALL-BRAN COOKIES FOR HEALTH

Shortening, water, molasses and sugar are mixed first for these cookies.

Add 1½ cups of All-Bran to the other sifted dry ingredients.

Bake at 370—and serve with rolled lettuce sandwiches of bonded bread and this cocoa.

Martha Lee

It's Easy to 'Eat for Health'

"Eating for health," is the prescription that's replacing many of the old-time pills and powders that the family practitioner used to bring with him in his little black bag.

"What a pity so many women age while they are young," said one of the modern doctors recently.

Certainly all-bran muffins, cookies, delicious hermits, and baked bran puddings offer a pleasant way of safe-guarding our health.

We've illustrated the All-Bran Molasses Cookies today, and then in addition to those, I have a good recipe for Hermits, Bran Biscuits, Mashed Potato Bran Bread that's smacking good, and even All-Bran Brittle, a health candy that the children will especially enjoy.

ALL-BRAN MOLASSES COOKIES

1 cup shortening.
½ cup boiling water.
1 cup molasses.
½ cup sugar.
1½ cups all-bran.
3 cups flour.
4 tsps. baking powder.
½ tsp. salt.
½ tsp. soda.
2 tsps. cinnamon.
2 tsps. nutmeg.
1 tsp. cloves.

Put the shortening into a bowl, add the boiling water, molasses and sugar. Add the all-bran, then the flour, which has been sifted with the other dry ingredients. Mix well, toss on a floured board, and roll thin. Cut and bake in a moderate oven (370 deg. F.).

New Macaroni and Spaghetti Contests to Close Nov. 9

Classes Open in Lee School

THE FALL and winter term of the Martha Lee Cooking School opened with a capacity crowd, many of whom enrolled early last spring, for these popular demonstration lectures.

The opening lessons covered "A Sunday Dinner for the In-Laws." It started with a clear consommé, served with new he-man size cheese croutons. Next came fricasseed chicken on a delicately browned noodle omelet, with a cream chicken gravy over all and delicious peas. Candied sweet potatoes, Woodcock relish, lettuce with Russian dressing, and an honest-to-goodness fresh strawberry shortcake, using the new fresh-frosted strawberries, completed the meal, which was prepared and served by Martha Lee.

Recipes on request to those who were unable to attend the lesson.

TWO-TO-ONE LEAVENER TWO-TO-ONE LEAVENER

Pastry mixed in 5 minutes?

.... Certainly!

Two-to-One Leavening makes it possible .....

5-MINUTE PASTRY! And just the kind you've always wanted to make, too. Now the Rumford way enables you to mix it in 5 minutes instead of the usual 15 or more.

One of the world's leading cooking authorities urges you to try this recipe.

2 cups flour	¼ cup shortening
½ teaspoon salt	1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon Rumford Baking Powder	Cold water

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Cream shortening in a bowl, as for cake. When light and creamy, quickly add sifted flour, mixing it in with a knife. Beat egg yolk, and add about two tablespoons of water to it. Add to flour mixture, using more water if necessary. But use no more than is needed to make a firm dough. Too much water will make the dough tough. Roll out at once on a floured board. Bake at 475 degrees, about twelve minutes. Makes one double-crust pie, or two pie shells.

SLAM THE DOOR It doesn't harm RUMFORD batter or dough

Greater flakiness!

. . . that's the secret of their tender crispness

This greater flakiness is a fact in Sunshine Krispy Crackers . . . not just an enthusiastic claim. You can see as well as taste the difference.

Sunshine Bakers want you to discover for yourself how this unusual extra flakiness makes their Krispy Crackers so tenderly crisp.

Salted . . . just-so-st enough!

In no other cracker will you find so many, many layers of delicate flakes!

Break one and you'll see many, many, delicate layers piled one upon the other... Under the magnifying glass appear hundreds of tiny, fairy-like caverns.

That, dear madam, is food. Umm-mm!

If you haven't tried these crisp, flavorful, salted squares there's a delicious revelation in cracker taste waiting for you at your grocer's.

TUNE IN WNAC, or WEAN, WLBZ, WNBH, WORC, WICC, WDRC, every Saturday at 9:45 a.m. You'll enjoy our 22-piece orchestra.

NOW TAHITI GOES NATIVE; CAPONE SHOWN UP PRIZE 'SUCKER'

By GILBERT SELDES

I THINK THAT "MIXED EMOTIONS" are the natural response to the following news item, relayed from Paris. "Seriously affected by the economic depression, the South Sea Islands appear on the verge of renouncing the ways of civilization." It appears that the farmers of Tahiti are urging their fellow countrymen to "resume their ancestral mode of life and abandon the attempt to maintain modern methods of living and trading." Specifically, European clothing and town life are to be cast off, and with them the artificial and commercial way of life which is held responsible for the degeneration of the islands.

GILBERT SELDES

Lots of Vistas

The Ibsen generation which always wanted vistas opening before it, would be pleased with the news, for it opens whole series of vistas, one after the other. There is the picture of Tahitian innocence, the lush vegetation, the Gauguin colors, the health, sexual simplicity, and charm of long ago. About that picture we are not allowed to be critical, because whatever is primitive and savage and uncivilized has become, by this time, sacred. We are not permitted to wonder whether the taboos of the simple aren't as rigid, as fear-inspiring, as the conventions of Society; we must not wonder whether savages have had nerves and indigestion.

Corruption

The second tableau is the one upon which we should feast our eyes: the tragic story of civilization entering into Eden and utterly spoiling and corrupting it. I am afraid it is not a pleasant spectacle; I fear that a mistake was made at the beginning, when the manufacturers in Manchester found that machinery made a lot of cloth and, instantly thereafter, decided that, for the glory of God, naked savages must be clothed—and must be clothed by Manchester. The story of the South Seas declining in health and vigor and kindliness, under the impact of European and American invaders is not a pleasant one.

Before corruption was completed, literature stepped in, giving us our third frame for the blessed islands. It was just after the war that a dream rose like a gentle mist from the South Seas and was wafted, on the wings of best sellers, across the ocean, overland, until New Yorkers walked in it, seeing visions, dreaming themselves away from post-war disillusion, weakness of will, and general moral debility. No matter what people actually did, in their mind's eye they saw themselves on that yacht, headed for those islands, getting away from it all.

Back to Nature

Now that picture, too, has faded. Too many hotels were built, too many comforts (and probably those most uncomfortable of all human resting places, comfort-stations). The traffic dwindled. The runaways haven't money enough to run away. The Tahitians are disappointed. And in their deception they become moral, as all of us do, and have decided that if no one else will, they will go native. Back to the soil, is the cry; back to simplicity; down with civilization!

I hope the Tahitians will not take it too seriously. If the story spreads that things are back to Methusaleh down there, the new visitors and writers will come. And, if that doesn't work, let them recall that in 1702, The Rev. Increase Mather found New England as degenerate as they now find their homeland. "Oh, New England, New England," he cried out, "look to it that the glory be not removed from thee, for it begins to go. Oh, degenerate New England, what art thou come to this day! How are those sins become common in thee that once were not so much as heard of in this land."

And for 229 years thereafter, New England has remained a pretty fair, decent, and moral segment of the universe.

Maybe there is justice in this world, after all; even more astonishing, it may come out of a court of justice. After everything else has failed, the trial of Al Capone made such a fool of the accused, that he may go down under universal ridicule, and if things break right, carry his ignoble followers with him. The god of the gangsters not only wears silk underwear; he is a sucker of the first order. According to testimony offered by himself, he has never yet picked the right horse; further, he desires it to be known that if he lost ten thousand dollars one day, all he could think of was losing twenty thousand the next.

He Worried!

It happens to be Capone's defense that he lost all his money. As I understand it, he lost so much on the nags that he couldn't afford to pay the government taxes. We all sympathize with the unhappy man, particularly when we think of the dark nights he spent praying for strength, wishing that he had the money which, it is admitted, he earnestly wanted to pay to the Great State which had made him so prosperous. Think of him on the night of March 14, knowing that his Uncle Sam (whose wise laws had enriched all the Capones and their friends) needed money—and him without a cent to give. How he cursed those days at the track; how he vowed never to back another horse across the board. It is pathetic.

But a pathetic, silk-underclad figure will not do in our gangster mythology. We had the gentleman burglar (thirty years ago and time will not turn back. The movies have taught us that public enemies are hard, and if Mr. Capone can't be hard, he'd better give up his job. In fact, to many of us it seems that he had better go to jail and be done with it; for a jailed gangster is unfortunate, but he is not ridiculous.

Rep. Costello Hurt in Auto Collision

Rep. Timothy J. Costello, candidate for the City Council, was injured yesterday when the car which he was driving in West Newton st. was in a collision at Washington st. with a coupe driven by Thomas J. Luttoff, 21, of Spear pl., South End. Costello was taken to the City Hospital.

Chile to Turn Off Lights for Edison

Santiago, Chile, Oct. 19 (AP)—All the electric lights in Chile will be turned off for a brief time at eight o'clock tonight as a mark of respect to the memory of Thomas A. Edison.

Death of Amateur Actor Is Probed

Rochester, N. H., Oct. 19—Horace Swaine, 22, well known local amateur actor, was found dead in bed at his home yesterday, under mysterious circumstances. A relative of the young man expressed the opinion that he had taken some poison, which he mistook for medicine, during the night.

Forrest L. Keay, medical referee, said that he would make no report until after further investigation.

Los Angeles on Trip

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 19 (AP)—The navy dirigible Los Angeles took off today on a 24-hour training flight over the metropolitan area and upper New York State. It will return to its hangar tomorrow at sunrise.

EDISON HAD AN OPEN MIND ON IMMORTALITY

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 19 (AP)—Thomas A. Edison went to his death with a open mind on the question of whether the soul is immortal.

Perplexed that no could not fathom the depths of possible life after death, he nevertheless reached the conclusion that the soul might live on.

For many years he had been an avowed disbeliever in immortality, but in his closing years he came to regard the subject from an open viewpoint.

Dr. Hubert S. Howe, his personal physician, recalls a conversation with the inventor in which the latter expressed his ideas. Dr. Howe quotes him as saying:

"Well, if there is a hereafte, it doesn't matter, and if there isn't a hereafter, it doesn't matter, either. I've lived my life and done my best."

Oft-repeated questions about Mr. Edison's religion caused the family to issue a statement on the subject after his death. Denying he was an atheist, the statement said he carried a reverence for a Supreme Intelligence, even though he subscribed to no orthodox creed.

Laval, on High Seas, Sends Message of Regret

Aboard Ile De France, Oct. 19 (US)—Premier Laval of France sent the following message to Ambassador Claudel at Washington:

"I have just been informed of the death of Thomas A. Edison, who has so notably contributed to the advancements of our civilization. Please transmit to the government of the United States and to the family of Mr. Edison my deepest sympathy at their loss, which is a loss to humanity."

DARKNESS FOR MINUTE URGED

New York, Oct. 19—William Randolph Hearst, Jr., president of the New York American Inc., sent the following telegram to President Hoover:

"Honorable Herbert Hoover,
"President of the United States
"The White House,
"Washington, D. C.

"The world should not be allowed to forget what Thomas Alva Edison has done. Should not America lead the world in paying homage to the greatest benefactor the human race has ever known?

"It occurred to me that if every electric light in the United States were to be turned out simultaneously for one minute, the people of the country, and especially the younger generation, might be partially made to appreciate the priceless contribution that Edison's genius has poured around our daily comfort, happiness and security.

"May I suggest, Mr. President, that you publicly proclaim a national period of darkness, say at 10 o'clock p. m. Eastern time, when all in silence may render due homage to him. I am sure, my dear Mr. President, that all citizens will gladly follow your lead in this tribute. I pledge you wholehearted support in making it a memorable undertaking.

"Respectfully yours,
"William Randolph Hearst, Jr.,
"President of the New York American, Inc."

Ford to Go to Edison Home in Special Train

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 19 (US)—Henry Ford, who with Harvey S. Firestone, was considered one of Thomas A. Edison's closest friends, will journey to West Orange in a special train, planning arrival to coincide within an hour of the start of the ceremonies. He will return to Dearborn when the rites are completed.

Though will end a companionship of years, a communion of genius that had its inception when both were moulding their careers in Michigan.

Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, Jr., Stricken With Pneumonia

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 19 (US)—Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, Jr., was reported early today to be suffering from an attack of pneumonia. Her condition at the start according to Dr. Hugh S. Howe, Mr. Edison's personal physician, who is treating her.

Germany Joins in Mourning for Edison

By HEINRICH BRUENING
Chancellor of Germany

Berlin, Oct. 19 (US)—The news of the death of Thomas Edison, that great American scientist and inventor, has been received in Germany with a feeling of sincere sorrow and a great regret.

Our country, where scientific discoveries have always been held in highest honor, is particularly conscious of the irreparable loss America has suffered.

Edison was not only one of America's most distinguished sons, but was among the greatest benefactors and pioneers in the progress of civilization for the whole modern world.

Edison Rites Changed as World Honors Him

inventions made possible modern miracles of telegraphy, lighting, phonographs, moving pictures and a myriad of other practical devices.

At 8 o'clock the library doors were opened and more than 300 assembled employes moved slowly into the room in single file. There were men and women of all ages, some in their best clothes and others, who were shortly due to begin their day's labor, in the rough garments of the workingman.

Some of the employes had even brought their children with them and carried them in the slow line that led past the bronze casket with its glass lid.

The casket was placed close to the old roll-top desk at which the inventor used to work and directly under a big bronze wall clock, the hands of which Edison had stopped at 3:27 yesterday morning, just three minutes after Edison died. The hands were left idle today, fixed at the point where they had halted.

At each corner of the casket stood an Edison employe with folded arms. This guard of honor was changed every 15 minutes.

The library was lit with the soft radiance of amber bulbs and the room otherwise was brightened by scattered vases of flowers and a few bunches of autumn leaves.

The public was admitted to the library at the west wing and a constant stream of men and women filed through.

The family issued an announcement that burial would take place near here instead of at Milan, O., as originally planned.

DEATH MASK MADE

Arthur L. Walsh, vice-president of Thomas A. Edison Industries Inc., revealed that a death mask was made of the inventor yesterday by George Fraser of New York.

After the mask was made, Dr. Howe disclosed that Mr. Edison on learning recovery was impossible, did not desire to live. His life's work done he did not wish to place an invalid's burden on his family, he said.

The death of Edison, which occurred at 3:24 a. m., Sunday, had been expected for days. The enormous strength of his heart made it possible for him to wage an astounding battle against the onset of the coma into which he fell a few days before the end. It had been known that there was no hope he could withstand the ravages of a complication of diseases which demanded uremic poisoning.

When newspaper men gathered in a garage near the home flashed word of the passing of the "Wizard of Menlo Park" to every corner of the globe, messages of condolence began pouring into the widow and the six children, who had been at the bedside of the 84-year-old inventor when he died.

Tributes came from China, Australia, Alaska and Africa, from civilized and near-civilized countries in which the electric light bulb was a reminder to millions that the light of its maker had gone out.

HOPE PRESIDENT SAD

They came in the statesmen who honored him for aiding the cause of universal peace; from scientists indebted to him for wresting many secrets from nature and turning them to every-day use; from noted men and women who had found inspiration in his devotion to humanity; from the youth of America, whom he helped and guided, and from a host of persons unknown to him. Front-page publicity whose ills had been brightened and made infinitely more pleasant through his benefactions.

President Hoover called him "a precious asset" to the whole world. Pope Pius called Cardinal Hayes his deep sorrow, and asked him to transmit his condolences to the family.

The cities, the four Oranges, are in deep mourning today. Mayors of each asked that all flags be flown at half-mast for a week. A two minute silence throughout the towns will be observed during Wednesday's funeral services.

DIED AS HE LIVED

Mr. Edison died as he lived, a subscriber to no religious creed.

A statement from the family, issued an hour after his death, read as follows:

"The question has been asked whether Mr. Edison changed his religious beliefs before death. Members of the Edison family state that this is a difficult question to answer because of the widespread misunderstanding of what his beliefs actually were. Mr. Edison cannot be said to have changed views attributed to him which he never held.

"He never was an atheist. Though not subscribed to no orthodox creed, no one who knew him could have doubted his belief in and reverence for a supreme intelligence, and his whole life, in which its ideal of honest, loving service to his fellowmen was predominant, indicated how faithfully he followed those two commandments wherein lie 'all the law and the prophets'."

At the bedside when the end came were: the famous man's wife Mrs. Mina Miller Edison, his sons, Charles, Thomas, William and Theodore, his daughters, Mrs. John Eyre Sloane and Mrs. Marian Oser.

Also in the room were Mrs. Charles Edison, Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, Jr., Mrs. William Edison, Mr. Sloane and Dr. Hubert S. Howe.

The great estate of Glenmont, in exclusive Llewellyn Park, was in a furore of activity as soon as the pronouncement of death was made.

In the Edison home eight men sat at telephones announcing the death news to those who called night and day for reports of the brave fight of the inventor against the invincible odds of old age and three major diseases.

HOOVER NOTIFIED FIRST

Telegraph wires and some 30 telephones in the press headquarters were put into constant action, and in one minute after the announcement, the whole world knew that Thomas Edison was dead.

President Hoover, Henry Ford, Harvey S. Firestone and Cardinal Hayes were among the first to be notified.

The great courage and stamina of Mrs. Edison, who has kept constant vigil at the side of the stricken inventor, for months, has aroused the admiration of all those who stood by, Mr. Walsh said today.

"Mrs. Edison never left the side of her late husband since their return from Florida last June. She contributed everything possible to his comfort and peace of mind, as was evidenced by his entire dependence on her during his waking moments.

"Mrs. Edison has shown extraordinary courage and Christian fortitude through it all, and is calmly submissive to the will of the Almighty."

Among the hundreds of telegrams and cables of tribute and condolence which flooded Glenmont today, were messages from Charles E. Mitchell, Bishop William T. Manning, George Eastman, Emil Ludwig, Arthur M. Anderson, a partner of J. P. Morgan & Company, Dr. George F. Kunz of Tiffany & Company, Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, Samuel Insull, The Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Brockton, Mass., and 6500 employes of the Edison Industries, Inc., in Milwaukee.

Pope Offers Prayer for Edison at Daily Mass

By THOMAS S. SALMON

Rome, Oct. 19 (US)—The Pope was deeply grieved on learning of the death of Thomas A. Edison. The Pope had often expressed his great admiration for the famous inventor, and was deeply touched when Mr. Edison some time ago presented him with a dictaphone machine which the Pontiff always keeps in his own library.

The Pope had cabled Cardinal Hayes asking him to proffer proper condolence to the Edison family. At this morning's mass in his private chapel, the Pope prayed for the soul of his departed friend whom he never saw.

HOOVER LAUDS EDISON'S LIFE

Aboard U. S. Arkansas, Oct. 19 (INS)—President Hoover, enroute to Yorktown to speak at the Jamestown centennial celebration, issued the following statement on learning of the death of Thomas A. Edison:

"It is given to few men of any age, nation or calling to become the benefactor of all humanity. That distinction came abundantly to Thomas Alva Edison, whose death has ended a life of unique and outstanding achievement. His life-long search for truth, resulting in more than a thousand inventions, made him the greatest inventor our nation has produced, and revolutionized our civilization itself. He multiplied light and dissolved darkness; he added to the whole wealth of mankind.

"He was great not only in his scientific creative instinct and insight, but did more than other American to place invention on an organized basis of the utilization of new materials and processes and discovery. He was a rare genius. He has been a precious asset to the whole world.

"Every American owes a personal debt to him. It is not only a debt for great benefactions which he has brought to every American, but also a debt for the honor he brought to our country. By his own genius and effort he rose from a newsboy and telegrapher to the position of leadership among men. His life has been a constant stimulant to confidence that our institutions do open the door of opportunity to those who would enter.

"He possessed a modesty, a kindliness, a staunchness of character rare among men. His death leaves thousands, and me, a friend, the nation bereft of one of its greatest benefactors. I mourn his passing as a personal friend over a quarter of a century."

Ft. Myers Stores to Close for Funeral

Fort Myers, Fla., Oct. 19 (AP)—This little city, where Thomas A. Edison established a retreat on the Caloosahatchee River nearly half a century ago, mourned the inventor's death today as it planned formally to honor his memory.

The ministerial alliance planned a joint religious service for the time of the funeral, and Mayor Josiah H. Fitch announced he would issue a proclamation calling for the closing of all business houses during the funeral hours.

Girl Near Death; Father Arrested

Fall River, Oct. 19—Mrs. Mary White of 86 Lindsey st. was said to be in a critical condition today in Fall River General Hospital, and his father, Augustinho F. Souza of 151 Sidney st. was under arrest for assault with a dangerous weapon.

Patrolman John Henry called to the White home yesterday, found Manuel Ferreira and Espond D. Pontes holding Souza, and the woman was lying on the floor, suffering from five stab wounds in her right breast.

DR. STRATTON DROPS DEAD

As plans for the funeral of Dr. Samuel Wesley Stratton, chairman of the corporation of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, were being completed today, educational and scientific circles paid eloquent tribute to his outstanding career.

Dr. Stratton's own tribute to his friend and fellow scientist, Thomas A. Edison, was stilled at his home, 370 Beacon st., last night when death came to him with tragic suddenness. He died as he was dictating to a secretary a statement in tribute to the memory of Edison. Death cut off his words in the middle of a sentence.

RESIGNED AS PRESIDENT

With him at the time, besides the secretary, was his devoted pet, his blind bulldog. Dr. Stratton's sudden passing was ascribed to a heart ailment.

Dr. Stratton, whose career rivalled Edison's in that both rose to the pinnacle of their profession from humble beginnings, had been president of M. I. T. from 1923 to 1930. At that time he relinquished the presidency of the Institute and confined his efforts to serving as chairman of the corporation of the school.

The organization of the United States bureau of standards, he served as head of the bureau until he came to Tech in 1923. His resignation from the post brought a statement of "public loss" from Herbert Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce.

UNFINISHED TRIBUTE

The educator's last words were:

"My associations with Mr. Edison extend over a period of more than 31 years. I have always admired his untiring energy, his imagination and his accomplishments. Few men have been of such great service to their fellow men.

"Monuments in his honor have been erected in many cities of the world. His life and his accomplishments have been, and will be for many generations to come, the inspirations of youth.

"The world mourns the loss of a very great benefactor.

"When his son graduated . . . that was from the cradle to the last. And oh, yes! Have you written it already? About his accomplishments which will be the inspiration of the generations to come?

"His interest . . ."

The 70-year-old man slumped forward. The secretary, Morris A. Pierie, called Dr. William Bradford Rollins, of Marlborough st. The doctor pronounced Dr. Stratton dead.

Bay State Leaders Join in Mourning Edison

Leaders of the city and state, scientists and educators, captains of industry and students all united here today in mourning the passing of Thomas A. Edison.

All agreed that the death of the brilliant inventor, whose achievements marked for him a permanent place in the world's history, was irreparable loss for the entire world.

THE GREATEST GENIUS

Mayor Curley said:

"The greatest inventive genius mankind has ever known—Thomas A. Edison—has passed to his reward. There was never a limitation to his field of effort and there were never too many repetitions necessary in the tasks of science to discourage this marvelous man, enormous labors by day and night, constant study and experiment, a sense of relentless purpose and industry that would never acknowledge defeat. The name of no man of modern times stands higher.

"When we realize Edison had issued over 1000 patents in this country and an even higher number abroad, we realize the versatility of his scientific mind and genius.

"He has earned the right to rest at the end of a life of service."

LIGHTS THE PATHWAY

Governor Ely said:

"The passing of one who has so benefited humanity brings us sorrow—but it is a glorious sorrow. The completeness of Edison's genius speaks to us constantly and lights the pathway of our progress. It has been suggested that a moment be set aside when the lights of the nation be dimmed in tribute. Such action would be a most impressive token of the affection of our people."

Charles L. Edgar, president of the Edison Illuminating Co., said:

"In the death of Thomas A. Edison the world has lost one of its great men.

"When those of us who knew him intimately and were inspired by his personality shall have faded from memory, his name will still live and grow with the years, an inspiration to the sons and daughters of every tongue, who see the light and render thanks to him who invented it.

"It remained for Edison to discover the source from which was created a new sun for a new world, bringing added comfort to homes and revolutionizing the life and methods of a grateful world. Edison blazed the trail through the jungles while others looked on in disbelief. His was the task to lead the way and he emerged with the fruits of victory."

REMEMBERS VISIT

John Hayes Hammond, Jr., radio expert and scientist:

"Many of the younger generation will miss Edison in a personal way. I shall always remember his kindness to me, when as a boy, my father and I spent a day with him in its laboratory.

"In spite of his great labors he found the time to explain to me his wonderful developments and to turn my life into its present career. He was a great human being as well as the greatest of inventors."

Edwin S. Webster, president of Stone & Webster engineering corporation:

"A great man and a great inventor has passed on. Those who knew him intimately loved him for his consideration of others, for his modesty and integrity of character. To the world he is known for his achievements, his accomplishments and records.

"The name Edison is one of which the electrical world is proud, for he blazed the way and devoted a long life to the development of details in that field. It is not too much to consider his life as an ideal of human accomplishments."

LOSS IRREPARABLE

Senator David I. Walsh:

"Thomas A. Edison's death is almost an irreparable loss. He has left a void in the scientific and commercial life of the nation that will not be filled for many years."

Admiral Louis M. Nulton, commandant of the First Naval District:

"The nation has lost one of its finest citizens—one whose whole life has been devoted disinterestedly to the welfare of his fellowmen."

Gen. Fox Connor, Commander First Corps Area:

"The country has lost one of its greatest men and greatest inventors."

Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology:

"Edison has achieved an eternal life because his scientific inventions are influences which are bound to continue.

"A list of Edison's patents startles one with the extent to which his genius has modified almost every aspect of our living."

Dr. Lewis Perry, Phillips-Exeter Academy and chairman of the last Edison scholarship contest:

"The death of Thomas A. Edison is an irreparable loss. Besides his creative genius, he will be remembered for his cheerfulness, his great capacity for work, and his ability to get along with everyone with whom he came in contact."

Prof. Dugald Jackson, head of the electrical engineering department at M. I. T.:

"The nation lost one of its greatest engineers when Mr. Edison has not received all the credit due him for his great originality of a useful and scientific nature."

T. Everett Fairchild, acting president of Boston University:

"Thomas A. Edison was one of the greatest practical thinkers and scientists. He has amplified the very accomplishments of science."

GENIUS INCOMPARABLE

Jeremiah T. Burke, superintendent of the Boston public schools:

"We associate the name of Edison with that of Franklin. The careers of these eminent Americans synchronize with the discovery of electricity and its marvelous developments.

"Edison gave his rich and full life to the practical application of this phenomenon of nature.

"On the long list of benefactors of the human race the name of Edison blazes forth resplendent. The world mourns his loss."

Payson Smith, commissioner of education—

"The fruits of Thomas Edison's inventive genius are present in homes and industrial establishments throughout the world. No one has more enriched the life of his own generation—he has left a richer heritage to posterity."

Homer Albers, dean of Boston University School of Law—

"The passing of Thomas Edison is very regretable. We might say of him as we once said of a great man in history, 'It is finished; his work is done.'"

Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton—

"Thomas Alva Edison should have the greatest funeral ever given to anyone in the United States. He has contributed more to science than any man that ever lived. His life was a tremendous loss, not only to America, but the world."

The Rev. A. J. Conrad, pastor of the Park Street Church:

"He made the world indebted to him by his indefatigable labor and his incomparable genius."

GREATER BOSTON NEWS

THIS IS LIFE

EDISON, MOST LOVED OF ANY GENIUS, WON TO TOP BY HARD TOIL

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

ROBERT E. ROGERS

OF ALL THE MEN of our day Thomas A. Edison probably came closest to the average American's ideal of success, a success based not on money accumulation but on the application of great knowledge to the visible, tangible, practical ends of human convenience. While he lay dying, some anonymous person sent him a telegram which read:

"I am only one of millions who have enjoyed and benefited from the many gifts God gave you to develop for man. Your ingenious mind, determination, and honesty will live forever as patterns for the further advancement of civilization. An American Citizen." That telegram, I think, spoke for most of us.

Civilization is not dependent, of course, on such comforts and conveniences as Edison gave us. He furnished us with the machinery out of which a fine civilization may yet be evolved. The rest is up to us. But the conviction behind the telegram is plain. His work was useful; it was understandable; it was creative; it was scientific. In comparison with these the average American's respect for the mystery of politics and the mystery of high finance dwindles to nothing. Most Americans would far rather have been Edison than either Coolidge or Morgan.

Genius? Why, It's Sweating Work!

His infrequently quoted remarks hit us where we live. He said: "Genius is one per cent inspiration and 99 per cent perspiration." He said: "There is no expedient to which a man will not go to avoid the real labor of thinking." When he was asked what frame of mind helps to bring ideas, he answered simply "The ambitious." He said: "Everything comes to him who hustles while he waits." He said: "In working out an invention the most important quality is persistence. Nearly every man who develops a new idea works it up to a point where it looks impossible and then he gets discouraged. That's not the place to get discouraged; that's the place to get interested." Only once in all his notebooks can be found an entry: "Saturday, 3:30; went home disgusted with incandescent lamps."

He said: "I always play my blue chips first. I try to think of the biggest thing I can do and then set about to do it." With this philosophy he gave us his inventions of the incandescent lamp, the stock ticker, quadruplex telegraphy, the commercial adaptation of the telephone, the storage battery, the phonograph, the development of the talking and movies pictures, and, finally, his inventions used by the Navy Department during the war.

He said: "The poor man with a family is the man for whom I am working." He said: "I call machinery the greatest of emancipators. I will go further and say that human slavery will not have been fully abolished until every task now accomplished by human hands is turned out by some machine, if it can be done as well or better by a machine."

He Delved to the Very Bottom

These quotations, which so reveal the heart of the man Edison, are quoted from the admirable study by Gamaliel Bradford of Wellesley and Boston, our finest student of human character as revealed in history. His "psychograph" of Edison is to be found in his latest book "The Quick and the Dead" (Houghton Mifflin Co.), one of a series of short, meaty studies of great contemporaries, living and recently dead. It is extraordinarily illuminating.

Americans also loved Edison because of the mistaken idea that he lacked scientific education and got his results by tinkering with apparatus. They could understand that, as they could not understand the work of a Newton or a Faraday, a discoverer of principles for the principles' sake. But Edison, though self-educated, was by no means a mere experimental tinkerer. He was an omnivorous student with a marvelously retentive mind. When he set about investigating a subject he procured every available book on the subject and mastered them, with amazing speed and amazing thoroughness. "The first thing is to find out what everybody else knows and begin where they leave off," he used to say.

Then came the intellectual approach. "I want to tell you that all problems I have ever tackled and solved have been solved by hard logical thinking . . . I speak without exaggeration when I say that I have constructed 3000 different theories in connection with electric light, each one of them reasonable and apparently likely to be true. Yet in only two cases did my experiments prove the truth of my theory."

Then came the experiments, notebooks on notebooks filled with records of multitudinous, patient, thorough experiments, most of which led to no result.

"All the theories in the world are useless, and must be thrown over the moment they are touched by one little contrary fact." An assistant said of him: "Edison can think of more ways of doing a thing than any man I ever saw or knew." A biographer says of him: "The world never saw a man more deeply and desperately convinced that nothing in it approaches perfection."

Deaf and He Loved Music

It was this feeling that kept him working 20 hours a day for many years. It was this which made him discipline himself to get along with four or five hours sleep of an average night. He lived to be 84.

There are Americans above fifty who, as early as they can remember, have always known of Edison as a great inventor, as the great inventor. His electric light dates from 1877. In 1927—50 years later—he was admitted to The National Academy of Sciences. So quickly and generously works the academic mind!

For years his personality has been familiar to our people. His working and sleeping habits, his deafness and love of music, his friendships with men of like temper and achievement, his blunt amplicity and kindliness, his passion for useful scientific education, his interesting if somewhat naive questionnaires, his scholarships offered to boys with first class minds, his disregard of money—we knew all these things. America felt that it knew the man and it loved him.

Gamaliel Bradford believes that, apart from the man who taught him telegraphy as a boy, no one else really ever taught him anything. He was extraordinarily self-dependent; in the most literal sense of the word he was a creative artist. He created out of nature's materials. And his aim in creation was always useful, "what will immediately conduce to ameliorating and facilitating human existence."

He said: "I don't live with the past. I am living for today and tomorrow." That might very well be his epitaph.

Fracture Too Trivial to Treat for Ex-Sailor Hurt in Football Game

A football game between the Question Marks and the Dungarees of Charlestown yesterday resulted in a spinal injury for one player and a broken arm for another.

Ernest Gentile, 21, of Question Marks, was taken to the Haymarket sq. relief station. Physicians said that his neck was not broken as had been feared, but that one of the bones of the upper spine was fractured.

BROKEN BEFORE

"Oh, is that all?" said Ernest, "I broke that bone before when I was in the navy. I think I'll go home."

The doctors protested, but Ernest signed the release papers. He shook the hand of a teammate, Gerould Fleming, son of Lieut. Fleming of Engine 5, who had broken his left arm in the same game.

THIRD YOUTH HURT

"For just a minute I thought it was my neck," said Ernest as he left for his home at 114 High st., Charlestown.

Martin Flanagan, 19, of Sprague st., Revere, while playing on the Barry playgrounds, sustained a possible fracture of the left leg. He was removed to the Frost Hospital in Chelsea.

FOUR FAMILIES FLEE FLAMES IN QUINCY

Owner of Poodle Rushes Into Burning Building to Carry It to Safety

Risking her own life, Mrs. Frank Pezzio rushed into the first floor of a dwelling at 7 to 9 Canal st., Quincy, last night, and rescued her pet poodle dog, as fire swept the building.

The fire, of undetermined origin, broke out in a storeroom on the second floor of the two-story building. Four families were driven to the street. Quincy firemen were forced to climb up ladders to fight the blaze.

Mrs. Pezzio, after reaching Canal st., discovered that her pet poodle dog had not followed her out.

Disregarding orders of police and firemen not to enter the building, she raced into her apartment and, with the aid of a flashlight, found the dog, partially overcome by smoke. Carrying the dog in her arms she ran out of the building and, when she reached Canal st., she was suffering from the effects of the smoke.

Mrs. Thelma Montford, who lives on the second floor, assisted several occupants out safely. The loss to the building was estimated at $1500.

GIRL'S SCREAMS LAID TO OWL

Wellesley's girl-screaming mystery was solved today when police came to the conclusion that eerie cries from across Lake Waban late Saturday night were made by a screech owl.

The disturbing cries were heard by maids in Lake House of the college, but when the two Wellesley College policemen conducted a search of the lake, and woods on the opposite shore, they found nothing amiss.

A closer search was made yesterday and still nothing unusual was found. A checkup was made of the Wellesley students and all were accounted for.

GRANGE TOLD TO WAR ON BEER

Legalized beer and the saloon would injure agriculture, National Master Louis J. Taber of the National Grange told New England grange members at Faneuil Hall yesterday. He criticized the American Legion, the American Bar Association and certain medical associations and declared that beer drinking nations have shown the greatest insecurity in the past few months.

"The grange has advocated every great moral reform in a half century," he said. "The grange is for temperance for social and economic reasons. The grange answers the cry, 'We want beer' by pointing out that the return of the saloon would injure agriculture and the nation.

"It takes more grain to produce the extra milk used in the homes of the United States since prohibition went into effect than was used by all the brewers and distillers in the last wet year."

AUTOS BRING DEATH TO 3

Three persons, two of them children, died in automobile accidents yesterday in New England. They are Donald E. Brunt, 3, of West Main st., Ashland, N. H.; Simone Masse, 8, of Green st., Somersworth, N. H., and Monteiam Rose, 60, of Westfield.

The Brunt child started to run across the street to meet his mother, and was struck by an automobile operated by Miss May Alice Dakin of Tilton N. H.

The Masse girl was walking in the street and stepped into the path of a passing automobile

Attempt to Loot Church Box Fails

An attempt to rifle an offering box at St. Mary's Church, Cambridge, was revealed last night by the Rev. John A. Butler, pastor, when he reported to police that he had seen two suspicious men in the church yard.

Father Butler found a slender stick, tipped with gum, which, he said, had been found on the floor of the church near an offering box. It is believed that the thieves planned to "dip" into the offering box with the gummed end and draw out coins.

Driver Hurt as Car Hits Safety Island

A safety island pillar on Massachusetts ave., North Cambridge was flattened yesterday, when an automobile operated by Arthur L. Sweeney of Gaston st., Medford crashed into the island opposite Porter rd.

Sweeney was treated for cuts on the face and his car was disabled.

BELINSKI ALL READY TO DIE

Resigned to his fate, Joseph Belinski, Rose farmhand, convicted slayer of his aged employers, William and Stacia Stevanovicz, today prepared to go to his death in the electric chair at Charlestown State Prison.

Executive clemency has been denied by Governor Ely, and Belinski will die in the chair sometime after midnight tonight.

The doomed man declared he would rather die than face life imprisonment.

He told prison guards:

"Once I saw a man electrocuted in a mill where I worked. It was not so bad."

His first visitor at the death house today was Rev. Ralph W. Farrell, prison chaplain.

Belinski's wife, Alice, whom he married 10 years ago, and his two children, Joseph, 16, and Pauline, 13, were expected to see him today for the last time.

Ripley to Be Guest at Ad Club Luncheon

Robert Ripley, famous cartoonist and author of "Believe It or Not," will be guest speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Advertising Club of Boston in Hotel Statler tomorrow noon.

Ripley has visited 122 foreign countries in search for unbelievable facts to present to his 30,000,000 readers and will tell of his strange experiences in collecting these fantastic realities. Members of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, in convention here, will be guests of the club.

Malone Funeral in St. Ann's, Neponset

The funeral of Frank G. Malone, for 14 years a member of the mailing room staff of the Boston Globe, was held today from his home in Cushing Hill rd., Neponset, with a solemn high requiem mass at 9 a. m. in St. Ann's Church. Interment was in St. Joseph's cemetery, West Roxbury.

Malone died Friday in Carney Hospital, victim of a hit-and-run driver. He is survived by his widow, two sons and a daughter.

Mill Men Postpone Meeting to Nov. 12

The textile forum of The National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, which was to open Thursday for a series of meetings, has rearranged its program to begin November 12.

Superintendents, managers and agents of mills in New England, New York state and Pennsylvania were to convene on Thursday, but this session will be held in the spring. Over-ers of carding from various mills will meet in the Boston Chamber of Commerce Thursday, November 12.

Sailor Robbed by 3 Pals on Joyride

Clyde Whitsom, 25, of Norfolk, Va., seaman on the steamer Robert E. Lee, tied up at East Boston, started out yesterday to have a good time. After an automobile ride in a lonely spot in Milton with three new-found friends, he was robbed of $25 and his watch.

Just Folks

Unpurchasable

In spite of market rise or fall
And all the woes that panics bring,
There still returns for one and all
The verdant glory of the spring.
The gold of autumn never fails.
Though rich or poor the man may be,
October spreads along the trails
A wealth of charm for him to see.

Strange thought that comes in tragic years,
When loss is everywhere deplored,
That man should shed so many tears
For pleasures which he can't afford.

That he who seems so strong and wise
Still fancies he can purchase mirth,
And, lacking money, blinds his eyes
To all the other joys of earth.

Yet never has he bought a friend
With silver worthy of the name.
The comrade, faithful to the end,
Not in the ways of barter came.
The love which strengthens him in care,
The beauty of the world at large,
And all that makes life's pathway fair
Are his without a dollar's charge.

EUGENIES AT HOLLYWOOD

ROBERTA GALE. Roberta Gale looks especially charming in this double trim derby of brown suede with the varicolored feather. This ought to quiet those who are so severe in their criticisms of Eugenie fashions.

JUDITH WOOD. This charming new millinery and riding derby is worn by Judith Wood, Hollywood favorite. Miss Wood's hat is of navy blue felt, trimmed with blue and white feathers.

DOLORES DEL RIO. Dolores Del Rio, idol of screen fans, is wearing a heart-shape scull cap of brown suede, dividing its lines over the right eye. See the veil.

SHIRLEY GREY. Back in the 1860's, this charming derby, with graceful ostrich, was very popular with milady. But none of the belles of that day could have sported it to better advantage than Shirley Grey.

Man About Town

By AL DUFFY

Nostalgia

I thought I had forgotten you complete
Until last night returning from a walk,
I passed the park where once we used to meet
And wandered in, remembering out last talk.

I found the bench between poplar trees,
Looked up and saw the piece of velvet sky
Aflame with gleaming jewelries,
And saw the moon a white cyclopic eye.

I smelt soft fragrance clinging all around,
I heard the night tune up its symphony;
I felt as though my feet were off the ground.
And cried out my nostalgic misery.

'Twas well somebody interrupted me—
Or I'd have been the fool I used to be.

Sights and Sounds

What New York stagehand, in town with one of the shows, got himself a beautiful beating up Saturday night for talking out of turn in a local barber shop?...I guess good times can't be far away...I saw three people playing on a miniature golf course Sunday afternoon... Tom Croce, well-known pilot at the East Boston airport, had his license suspended the other day for stunting over the airport... But, all things considered, Tom is satisfied...Lee Shubert is a very sick man...The opening of Queenie Smith's new show, "The Little Racketeer," has been postponed until Wednesday night...Just about a year ago Madge Kennedy came to Boston in "Michael and Mary" and suffered a very painful injury in an automobile accident...Madge is such a grand person that I hope she is more fortunate while she's here with "Private Lives." Noel Coward's play, that opens tonight at the Tremont.

Well, sir, did we have fun!...We were sitting in Jolson's dressing room before the show Saturday night when he said, "Why don't you go on and be an actor for me tonight for laughs?"...So we climbed into one of his tuxedos (and it was a very good fit, incidentally) and spent the evening as one of the guests of the Wonder Bar...I don't think I've ever had so much White Rock in my life before...Two more drinks of it and I'd have floated right off the stage...She'll probably kill me for telling you, but Patsy Kelly's full name is Sarah Veronica Kelly... Imagine!...And Jean Malin's full name is Victor Eugene James Mallin (with two "l's") and his favorite literature, he says, is "Grimm's Fairy Tales."

LEGION BALL TO AID NEEDY

Preparations are now nearing completion for the annual victory dance and entertainment of Thomas J. Roberts Post, American Legion, of Dorchester, for the benefit of the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund.

Proceeds of the affair, which will be held on Armistice evening, Nov. 11, at the Hotel Bradford, will be used by the Boston-American to buy Christmas baskets for the poor and needy.

Miss "Tot" Dunlea, is among the many performers who have volunteered their services. She will entertain in songs and dances.

Bishop Anderson Speaks in Brookline

Bishop William F. Anderson yesterday visited St. Marks M. E. Church, Brookline, as part of a tour through the New England area. The tour is partly in the interest of the New England Deaconess Hospital, which is endeavoring to raise a fund to clear its indebtedness.

"We may as well take the depression philosophically," said the Bishop in his sermon. "Perhaps we have had too many things, have set too high a value on material things. You are never living at your best unless you are solving hard problems."

BOYS TAKE GRID EQUIPMENT

Young football players who have been causing the Brookline high school football squad considerable loss nearly prevented the game on Saturday with Revere high school, it was learned today.

By breaking open the door to the locker room of the athletic quarters at Brookline Field, on Jamaica rd., boys stole parts of uniforms valued at $400. The theft was discovered in time by Director of Physical Education Thomas Hines to get new regalia for the team. The first break took place about two weeks ago, when the thieves got away with $200 worth of uniforms.

Among the articles stolen the last time were 19 head guards, nine footballs, five pair of pants, five pair of hip pads and several sweaters.

Teachers Cut Pay for Unemployed

A 2 per cent assessment on all members' monthly salaries for a period of six months, to aid unemployment, has been voted by the speech improvement class of the Teachers' Assn.

The money will be collected in a lump sum and turned over to the Boston Public Welfare Department to be added to the unemployment fund.

CURLEY TO GET $908 FOR NEEDY

South Station Thronged as Evangelist and Husband Leave for N. Y.

Mayor Curley today will receive $908.90 for Boston's unemployed, the total of a special collection taken at the final revival meeting in the Boston Garden by Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton.

Recalling her promise to the mayor, the evangelist last night asked her largest audience of the revival series to donate to aid the unemployed in a collection taken after the regular free will offering.

DEFICIT FOR CAMPAIGN

Despite the large gatherings which have heard Aimee, and last night's gathering of 22,100 swelled the total to 165,000, the campaign ended with a deficit estimated at more than $5000.

It is estimated that the evangelist collected approximately $17,000 in free will offerings. Her expenses, however, were figured at $2600 daily or a total of $23,400.

The evangelist told the gathering last night that she had failed to make expenses, and that she had agreed to give Mayor Curley half of the net proceeds for the unemployed. She th refore asked all to contribute for a second time.

LEAVE FOR NEW YORK

Aimee and her husband left on the midnight train for New York and were accorded a lusty farewell by thousands at the South Station. The evangelist and her husband rushed from the Garden after the meeting to the Hotel Lenox and from there to the station with a motorcycle police detail.

It was necessary for police to escort Aimee from the platform and from her dressing room to her waiting car to protect her from the thousands who were attempting to bid her a personal farewell. At the station the train shed doors were closed to keep the throng away. Aimee was almost mobbed by well wishers as she passed through the crowd.

She promised she would be back soon. When she did not name a date she said the first of next year.

DRAMATIC SERMON

Enthusiasm ran high at last night's meeting. The crowd packed the Garden and it was estimated that 3000 were turned away.

Aimee's entrance was the signal for the presentation of many floral tributes.

The sermon was about the poem "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight." The most elaborate scenic effects were used. Depicting a parable of the crucifixion, Aimee climbed the steps of a wooden representation of a belfry tower and clung to the clapper. A figure dressed as Death tolled the bell.

At the afternoon meeting she preached to 14,000 persons, while 2500 attended the morning service.

Holy Name Men to Hold Penny Sale

A penny sale, under the auspices of St. Catherine's Holy Name Society of Somerville, will be held Thursday evening in the old church building on Summer st.

A ton of coal, a hope chest, several floor lamps, and more than 200 other prizes will be awarded.

CONCENTRATE! HERE'S A GOOD TEST

Ever try to outline even a small idea in church, while the congregation is singing? Maybe you could during the sermon, but that's different. "Sister Aimee," as you see, is calmly writing a sermon, while a choir sings in back of her, with orchestra accompaniment, and 10,000 or more in the audience at the Garden lift their voices, too. Aimee and her husband, David Hutton, left for New York last night.

MEDFORD VOTES TOMORROW

Medford voters go to the polls tomorrow, in the biennial primary with four candidates seeking the two nomination places for mayor and scores running for the board of aldermen and school committee.

Mayor Edward H. Larkin, Alderman John H. Burke, former Clerk of Committees Charles T. Daly and Attorney Lewis H. Peters are the candidates for mayor.

There are contests for school committee from wards four and six. In ward four the candidates are Monroe Ames of 28 Pearl st., Walter V. Lonergan of 27 Douglas rd., Harry M. McNear of 28 Orchard st. and Mrs. May E. Songster of 18 Truro ave.

In ward six the three candidates are Guy E. Healey of 21 Grove st., George F. Ruggles, Jr., of 74 Sharon st. and Earle M. Stetson of 58 Sharon st.

There are contests in each ward for alderman-at-large with the exception of wards three and seven. For ward aldermen there are contests in each ward, with the exception of ward one.

Red Light Stops Car With Three Wheels

A red traffic light in Lynn stopped Seth W. Spinney, 48, of Pennybrook rd., Lynn, who was arrested and charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and going away from the scene of an accident after causing property damage.

Spinney had driven five blocks on three wheels after his car is alleged to have struck two other automobiles.

CADETS HONOR ELY TONIGHT

Gov. Joseph B. Ely will receive tonight the armory on Columbus ave. an elaborately engraved and inlaid saber from the members of the First Corps of Cadets, of which he is an honorary colonel.

The presentation will take place at 8 o'clock, and will be followed by a review of the force for the governor and veterans of the organization.

Other prizes and trophies will also be awarded at tonight's exercises, and each of the four batteries —A, B, F and H—will give an anti-aircraft demonstration.

The Appleton medal, awarded for the highest scores in the 200-yard offhand class at the Wakefield interbattery shoot, will be given, it is hoped, by the donor in person, Gen. Francis H. Appleton, who established the medal in 1872.

The Ellis prize for all-round efficiency, the Parsons trophy for the best pistol shot, and the Coxwell rifle presented to the highest man on the cadet team in the state shoot at Wakefield will also be awarded tonight.

A talk by Charles R. Crane of Chicago on a recent journey into the Far East, will be followed by a motion picture exhibition. Lieut. Col. Harry Spencer, commanding officer of the cadets, will be in charge of the exercises.

Joseph M. Proskauer of New York to Be Speaker at Opening Dinner

Joseph M. Proskauer, former associated justice of the New York State Court of Appeals, will deliver the principal address at the annual dinner of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies which will launch its 1931-32 campaign at the Copley-Plaza hotel next Sunday evening.

More than 1000 guests, the largest gathering in the history of Boston Jewish communal endeavor, are expected.

Sidney Rabinovitz, chairman of the dinner committee, stated today.

Sidney Rabinovitz

With 1500 volunteer workers, under the general chairmanship of Henry Penn, scheduled to start on their community-wide solicitation of funds a week from today, more than a score of team meetings have been arranged by trade, professional and district groups.

SEVERAL MEETINGS PLANNED

Yesterday afternoon the furniture group, under the division command of Max S. Warren, met at the home of Benjamin Stern, 53 Commonwealth ave., Newton.

Women workers of the Jamaica Plain district will be the guests of Mrs. Jacob Schwartz, supervisor, at a tea today at her home, 65 Prince st. Meetings this evening are those of the men's clothing team at the home of Arthur C. Stern, chairman of team reorganization, Pelham Hall, Brookline, and the women's wear group at the home of Casper M. Grosberg, division commander, 27 Arborway, Jamaica Plain.

The advertising, printing and allied trades division will meet for luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow noon. Hosts at the luncheon will be Grover B. Daniels, division commander, and the following team captains: Gabriel M. Stern, advertising and newspapers; Barnard J. Lewisk, printing; Samuel L. Ginsburg, paper; Samuel Narcus, office equipment, and Alfred Brown, photographers.

CAMPAIGN RALLY

Dr. Charles F. Willnsky, medical division commander, has called a dinner conference of the physicians and dentists teams at the Hotel Kenmore, and Dorchester and Mattapan women workers will meet at the home of Mrs. Oscar Grosberg, 64 Bradshaw st., Tuesday night.

Dr. B. M. Selekman, executive director of the Philanthropies, will address a campaign rally of more than 500 workers of the women's division, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Hyman Freiman, at the Temple Israel meeting house, Riverway and Longwood ave., Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. That afternoon, at 4 o'clock, the insurance team, of which Charles S. Cohen is captain, will meet at the Associated offices.

Cheers Cripples

Judith Anderson, star of "As You Desire Me," now playing at the Plymouth Theater, brought cheer to more than 300 crippled children at the Massachusetts Hospital School at Canton.

MISS ANDERSON AT HOSPITAL

More than 300 crippled children at the Massachusetts Hospital School at Canton were made happy today by Judith Anderson, star of "As You Desire Me," now at the Plymouth Theater.

With the aid of Hugh Miller, Russell Hicks, Chana Cuvert and Miss Doris Lauray, all of the same show, Miss Anderson put on a special program for the children, including dancing and musical numbers and a comedy skit.

Miss Anderson hoped to have some of the children as her guests at the theater but this was not possible, she learned.

Sales Increase Shown at Paine's

That people have money to spend when offered attractive values is evidenced by the active selling experienced by Paine Furniture Co, during the past three months.

Beginning with the August sale, when 800 new charge accounts were opened, and 675 people attended one of the Wednesday "Open Nights" down to the past week, when 900 customers visited the store on the opening day of the Makers' Surplus Sale, total volume of business has shown an appreciable increase over last year, although prices are lower.

Working Married Women Assailed

In his sermon prelude last night in Park Street Church, Dr. A. Z. Conrad criticized married women who work.

"In some of those cases some girl who is the support of a family is kept out of work by a married woman who does not need to work but simply wants a little more money," he said.

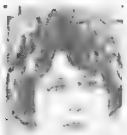
EUGENIE WAS RIGHT—BE SUBTLE AND COQUETTISH

By HELEN ROWLAND

The pursuit of the ironic young man, who pointed a finger and shot at me with the imperative command, "Drink Peter's Gingerpop," has ceased. You no longer startles you. It merely leaves you tired and resentful.



And, incidentally, the go-getter girls who are still pursuing the post-war high pressure methods in the love-game, should be reminded that the War is over and that machine-gun methods of man-capture are no longer effective.

HELEN ROWLAND

Look, how carefully some of the book blurbs and beauty-cream ballyhoos and the soap ads are camouflaged to resemble harmless, little, confidential chats or news reports or society gossip. They just sneak up on you, when you least suspect it. That's good psychology.

At all events, and that's three days. We have all the game urge, and started, and a little suspicion. Suspicion of the go-getter.

You can no longer surprise or frighten or bully a man into marriage. [illegible] woman-ship.

The Big Title Tilt. ↕ Thompson Willing.
First at 15 Rounds. ↕ The Inside Counts.
White Mits for Lou. ↕ Who Will Referee?

BOXING COMING BACK WITH BELLS ON

With Eddie Casey, Bill Graves and the rest of the gang chasing about Kay Frothingham Alley Mammies at breakneck speed this fine October day to raise a bit of a roar in behalf of the manly art of scrambling ears in general and the world's welterweight championship shindy between Jack Thompson and his New England challenger, Lou Brouillard in particular, Boston's big day to scrap the first official 15-round bout at the championship weight to an official referee's decision, is just around the bend. Next Friday night and the Boston Garden is the place. The gang all will be there in such good old-fashioned numbers as to prove that if you give the cauliflower addicts the right matches the matchmakers will pack 'em in, depression or no depression. Besides being the first official 15 rounds championship match under the new law, the Thompson-Brouillard duel is a fistic "natural" that promises to be a cockle of the heart warming shindy from the first to final gong. This humble scribe who has somewhat soured on the Ring Racket—and who can blame him?—wouldn't miss the Thompson Brouillard shindy for the proverbial farm. From the advance sale the New England boxing patrons share the same sentiments.

In addition to being the first 15-round official championship bout under the new law, the bout will carry another unique and novel wrinkle in the fact that Brouillard has had a special pair of doeskin boxing gloves made, tanned and colored a distinct white and today will ask the Massachusetts State Boxing Commission for permission to use them in the duel with the colored champion. As the gloves conform with all the rulings as regards size, shape, weight and padding, and inasmuch as they materially will aid the judges and the referee, the commission probably will sanction and approve Brouillard's request.

"A white boxer," says Maurice LeMoyne, manager of Brouillard, "considerably is handicapped when fighting a colored opponent if the usual dark-colored gloves are used. Against a colored boxer's skin the gloves scarcely can be distinguished. Spectators find it hard to tell just where the blows are going or if they landed, missed or were blocked. Brouillard expects to knock out Thompson and win in such a decisive manner there will be no question of his worthiness to the world's title. But I am taking no chances and if Lou fails to stop the champion I don't want to lose the title just because the officials failed to see blows landed by my man on his dusky opponent."

The idea of wearing white gloves in facing a negro opponent is a novelty on this side of the pond. But Billy Ames, the Garden matchmaker, says that when Sam Langford fought Bill Lang under Ames auspices at Olympia in London he had Lang use white gloves to aid the officials. The idea proved such a good one that it was used in subsequent contests in which white and black boxers met in London.

Ray Alvis, the champion's manager, has no objection to the challenger wearing white gloves. He says it is as fair to one as it is the other. Besides it's what's inside the gloves, not the color, which counts. What is bothering Alvis is the selection of the officials. He does not want to pick the referee or the judges but believes he should have something to say in their selection.

"If Thompson loses I don't want to squawk about the champion being a victim of a 'Boston decision'," says Alvis. "But all fair minded fans will acknowledge that there have been 'off' decisions here in The Hub. If Thompson loses I want him to lose on his merits. I am not asking for any of the best of the referee question but I do believe that both the manager of Brouillard and myself should be allowed to sit in with the commissioners and have something to say about the selection of the officials. It is only fair to both sides that no man or men be selected as judge or referee, whose honesty, ability, courage, or anything else is doubted by either LeMoyne or myself. Remember a world's title is at stake."

It didn't do Bill Lang much good to wear white gloves in his bout with Sam Langford in London for the Boston Tar Baby knocked poor Bill colder than a landlady's heart in jig time. What a sock was packed by the Dempsey of the brunettes! We saw Sam break Tony Ross' jaw with a punch that didn't travel six inches.

Speaking of Dempsey, some pictures taken of the old Man Killer last week, are on our desk. If anyone ever was in shape, Dempsey now is. He is as lean and hard looking as he was when he came off the rods to first startle New York more than a decade ago. Jack's legs may be gone but his fists are still present. The Manassa Mauler still can lick anyone who dares stand up and slug with him. A smart, heady boxer like Sharkey might wear him down. But anybody that faces Dempsey will be playing with dynamite.

Twenty-five years ago last Friday, Honey Mellody, white, beat Joe Walcott for the world's welterweight championship, here in Boston. With history repeat when the black world's champion, Jack Thompson, meets Lou Brouillard, the white challenger?

If the duel next Friday only is half as hectic as some of the mixed bouts we have seen, there will be no kick coming. George Dixon, Little Chocolate—or rather the shade of Dixon for poor little George was well on the down grade then—vs. Terrible Terry McGovern, Stanley Ketchel vs. Sam Langford—oh what two fighting men! Lee Johnson vs. Benny Leonard. That was when King Bennah was at his peak. Joe Walcott vs. George Lavigne one of the most hectic, berserk battles in the history of the prize ring. Joe Gans vs. Frank Erne. Saving Leonard there never has been another lightweight in the Old Master's class. Whoops My Dear! Fur and feathers will fly in the Garden next Friday night!

O'Shocker and Mondt in Garden Tussle

Pat O'Shocker will receive another opportunity to gain fame on the mat on the stellar card with Toots Mondt in a finish bout at the Boston Garden tomorrow night. O'Shocker has been winning steadily, and if he can dispose of Mondt will receive a match with Jim London.

Mondt is a veteran of the mat game, and should give the youthful O'Shocker plenty of opposition. O'Shocker, on account of his youth and long run of victories, is a favorite to win.

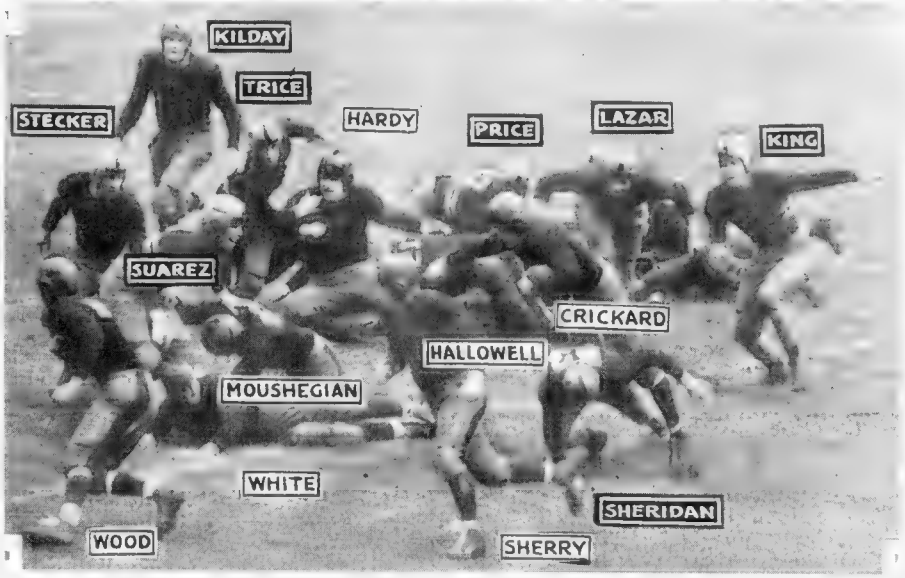
Walker, Kearns to Second Leonard

Benny Leonard will not lack for expert advice when he opposes Vince Dundee in a 10-round bout at an Argonne A. A. show at the Arena a week from tomorrow night.

Mickey Walker, former world's middleweight champion, and Jack Kearns will be in Leonard's corner. Benny himself has always been touted as a fine ring general and with Walker and Kearns as aids should drop out a plan of battle which will cause the youthful Livan plenty of trouble.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

WHEN ARMY TURNED THE CRIMSON COHORTS BLUE



No wonder the Crimson cohorts turned blue when, near the Army goal line, a missed block prevented Harvard from gaining a touchdown and getting the first period jump on the Army. Some Harvard man missed his assignment on this play, for Sheridan, Army right end, was in like a streak, and White only partially blocked the Cadet. The latter half fell and was regaining his feet when Crickard, with the ball, ran into Sheridan and was so slowed up and thrown off balance that king of the Army nailed the Harvard back from behind for a seven yard loss. Had Sheridan been taken out, Sherry could have blocked Suarez, and Wood taken Stecker, in which case Crickard might well have scored. The Crimson made up for that slip by its play through most of the game.

FIGHTS FOLLOW ST. MARY'S WINS OVER GRAY FOG

[illegible] Oct. 19 (US) [illegible] Fianiacus must wait at least one more year to defeat its most bitter rival, St. Mary's College.

The "Galloping Gaels" from Moraga added another victory to their growing list when they turned back the determined bid of the Grey Fog, 14 to 6, here yesterday.

Harvard and Columbia Outplay Foes to Win in Standout Games

By Eddie Casey

Harvard Head Coach and All-American Star

Eddie Casey will write an exclusive article for the Boston Evening American each Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

It is no longer possible to speak of upsets because we are now in that portion of the football season when natural rivals are meeting in major contests. Outstanding among such contests last Saturday were the clashes of [illegible] at least three games here [illegible] rivals [illegible] Harvard came from behind to [illegible] a sporting [illegible] Army eleven, Columbia [illegible] Dartmouth and Cornell [illegible] Yale, [illegible] Each of these victories [illegible] but it takes more than that to make football our greatest college game. Tulane and Tennessee stamped themselves as leaders of the South with Georgia by their decisive victories over old rivals. Tulane defeated Vanderbilt, 13 to 0, by some more of their great team play that has made their team [illegible] Tennessee coming on top of Vanderbilt with Obee [illegible] gave Southern football another boost over the East. Tennessee [illegible] one of the great backs of the year and he proved it by scoring most of his team's 25 points over Alabama.

Bo McMillan Deserves New Title

Bo McMillin is a Kentucky Colonel he [illegible] his great play with Centre College 10 years ago. Now they will have to invent a new title for him out in Kansas because his Kansas Aggies licked Kansas University, the 1930 champs of the Big Six Missouri Valley Conference, by a score of 13 to 0.

Navy eked out a 12-7 win from Delaware; that means plenty of work for Rip Miller before December 12, when the Army must be met. This Saturday the Navy strength can be gauged better when it tangles with Princeton. Washington and Jefferson was fortunate to beat the strong team that annually represents Western Maryland, 13 to 12, and Villanova's cripples were well satisfied with their 12 6 margin over Boston College.

Fordham managed to be Holy Cross at the closing minutes of their New York game, but it was handicapped, in my opinion, greatly by the absence of Jackie Fisher, dynamic quarterback. Iowa and Indiana staged one of the tightest scraps of the day in their scoreless tie. It is interesting to note how few scoreless ties occur during a season and that most of those are caused by mud battles.

Gloomy Gil Has Great Cornell Team

Everyone suspected Gloomy Gil Dobie to have a great team at Cornell and he came up to expectations by outplaying Princeton in every department. Syracuse did even better than I had expected in rolling up 33 points against Florida, and Yale's margin over Chicago of 27 points serves notice that the Elis are catching on to their Notre Dame attack. Georgia and Southern California rolled up unusually large scores on such old rivals as North Carolina and Oregon. Both teams are powerful and on the road to great things. Pittsburgh and Notre Dame tuned up for their

Humphries' Voice Outlasts 41 Years of Ring Roaring

New York, Oct. 19 (US)—Forty-one years ago an 18-year-old youth climbed into an East Side dog's ring and announced the program in a robust voice developed by touring into the leads of "After the Ball" and other songs popular in the early days of the gay nineties and outlasted by quaffing the good old brew of that era.

That was the beginning of the oratorical career of Joe Humphries, who is 59 today and going as strong as ever. As a vocalist in a Queensbury setting, Joe has [illegible] seen them come and go from the time that John L. Sullivan was in the heyday of his career. He has made more public appearances than any other man in New York.

Humphries developed his flowery style to full bloom during the Borton law days. He officiated through the "both members of the club" span, when legalized betting went out, to be resumed under the Frawley law, which was replaced by private club boxing, until the Walker law opened up the decade of greatest prosperity in [illegible]

Eye Trouble of Max Clears; Champ to Tour U. S. Soon

Berlin, Oct. 19 (US)—With his eye trouble completely cured Max Schmeling is ready to invade America again.

Schmeling's manager, Joe Jacobs, today promised the "sensation of a decade in the boxing world" when Schmeling will fight an opponent, as yet unnamed, for the benefit of the Milk Fund next June.

Schmeling will open an exhibition tour of the United States on December 15. He will fight Mickey Walker in February, either at Miami or Los Angeles.

"What will likely be Schmeling's crowning event will take place when he fights for the Milk Fund. Who his opponent will be and where the fight will be staged will be determined on my return to New York, where I will confer with Dumon Runyon," Jacobs said.

Jacobs is leaving here October 30 and Schmeling will follow some time in November.

The famous German eye specialists, Professors Boetzner and Adam, announced that Schmeling's eye injury is completely cured, the enforced rest period is ended and the champion is ready for engagements.

CHAMP TURNS ACTOR

JACK THOMPSON, left, world's welterweight champion, has turned actor, but that doesn't mean he will not defend his title against Leo Birchard in the Boston Garden next Friday night. Although he has signed with LEW LESLIE, right, to star in Lew's next Blackbirds' show it will not interfere with his fight date. The pact calls for Thompson to win the world's championship and marry the dusky belle. If Thompson should lose to Birchard he at least can act the part in the new show. Thompson has been matched to meet Jimmy McLarnin for Mrs. Will'am Randolph Hearst's Christmas Fund show.

ITALY BARS WOMEN IN SPORTS

Rome, Oct. 19 (AP)—There will be no women's athletic meet at Naples on November 1 because the Italian Olympic committee has cancelled it on the principle that in Italy woman's place is in the home.

Sports for women the committee said must be limited to "educational gymnastics" for young women, and sports may be indulged in for pleasure only when the participant is fully developed physically.

The meet which was scheduled for Nov. 1, and all others of the kind, the committee's announcement said, are "not within the comprehension of Italian women," and competitive contests "as practiced in other countries of different mentality and habits do not accord with the character of the Italian people who are determined to defend family unity and who do not wish excessive liberty to be given to girls and women."

Three and a half years ago Pope Pius, in an open letter to the vicar of the Rome diocese, roundly condemned athletic competition for girls, asserting that "after twenty centuries of Christianity . . . the delicate ears due the young women and girls . . . has fallen lower than in pagan Rome."

struggle this Saturday by holding scoring beas. Their game should be one of the highlights of the season.

The number of tries for points after touchdown that were missed this week was an outstanding feature to my mind. Out of the 20 representative games that I have mentioned above there were 40 failures in 90 attempts. Notre Dame stood out in this respect by tallying on every one of its nine tries against Drake, even though five teams were used in the game. In at least three of the games this failure meant the difference between victory and defeat or a tie.

It is foolish to claim that any one player is responsible for either the victory or defeat of his team because football is pre eminently a team game. It is also unfortunate that backs who carry the ball get most of the attention of fans and the press. This last week brought out such names as McEver of Tennessee, Mohler of Southern California, Wood of Harvard, Cardigan of Amherst, Vivano of Cornell, Frye of Rice and Grossman of Rutgers. All of these players deserve recognition for playing their positions outstandingly well.

If we could pick a similar group for each position on the team we would be tempted to greater raptures. Frye and Gross deserve special merit because they stood out even though their teams were beaten.

This week there are enough great games scheduled to cloy the appetite of the most rabid fan. Here in New England Yale and Army meet in a game that will mark a turning point for one or the other. Harvard meets Texas, which comes North to represent the whole Southwest. The Little Three series begins with Amherst meeting Wesleyan. Boston College will try for a new start against Marquette.

The Mid-Atlantic provides N. Y. U. against Colgate, a natural: Princeton and Navy is another, while Wisconsin brings a strong team to meet Penn. Down South Georgia will meet Vanderbilt and Tulane faces Georgia Tech in the toughest games. The Pacific Coast Conference games have Southern California and California in the South and Stanford against Washington in the North.

The game of the week is the Pittsburgh-Notre Dame tussle which may come close to deciding the outstanding team of the country. Northwestern and Ohio State meet in the game that should decide the title in the Big Ten Conference.

Another exclusive article on football by Eddie Casey will appear in the sports pages of the Boston Evening American on Wednesday.

EAGLES FACE MARQUETTE THIS WEEK

Boston College today begins preparations for its Saturday game with Marquette University at Fenway Park. Coach Frank McKenney is encouraging reports on the condition of his players and they will go through a stiff workout this afternoon.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher's comment on the Eagles was: "Boston College was a 100 per cent improved team. I saw McKenney's team in both its previous games with Fordham and Boston, and I hardly recognized it against Villanova."

The Chesterfield forward, a victim of bruised muscles, Johnny DiCenzo, who saw none was broken in the Boston game, but who earlier in the game was rapped again on the nose and in addition had a hard bath.

Marie Wrabley was forcing guard in the second half in place of DiCenzo. He played a steady game.

Coach McKenney will devote today to a signal drill and passing attack. The Eagles have been using a passing attack in practice and Marquette is expected to be a great aerial attack.

Pete Cassesso, quarterback, will direct McKenney's attack from the starting gun.

Cassesso passing honors and the B. C. passing in general was far ahead of the Eagles will be drilled plenty this week to perfect their attack.

"They call it the gridiron" to make the middle-aged athlete "here . . . many coaches are roasted on it every year."

What should they call the stands where so many persons get boiled every year?

Football reformers want to give the game back to the boys. But the boys fear reformers bearing gifts.

Reformers often meet arrive.

The Cadets must be feeding the Army Mule on ginger ale. It lacked the kick against Harvard.

Also one of the thousands who have heard said it, Harvard might. Casey did not strike out.

Maj. Sasse, Army coach, proved his own recent statement Saturday that West Point is a school for future army officers, not a training school for football players.

It's coming near making a liar of the Fordham Rams.

We suggest that Jimmy Johnston, now head of the Madison Square Garden, be appointed as matchmaker, to bring Harvard and Princeton football teams together for the benefit of the unemployed.

Boxing classes would cover up the Princeton signet rings.

PRICE CHANGES IN WALL ST. ARE NARROW

New York, Oct 19—Price changes were largely narrow in trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Forenoon trading tone was somewhat heavy, owing to a sag in the railroad shares.

DELAY DISAPPOINTING

It was felt in brokerage circles that there may have been some disappointment over failure of the Interstate Commerce Commission to hand down its decision on the freight rate plea over the week-end.

Shares off 1 to 2 points included Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, U. S. Steel, American Telephone and Westinghouse. Most changes, however were limited to fractions and trading was dull.

Week-end reports from the steel industry indicated that moderate improvement was expected, at least in some sections, over the next month, although such gains as have already appeared have failed to step up the production ratio.

"Steel" said declines at Chicago and Birmingham offset a fractional rise at Youngstown, putting activity down one point to 28 per cent of rated capacity.

In brokerage house circles a period of stock market dullness and minor price movements would be regarded as encouraging. Favorable news for the immediate trends is expected, but hope is dim for much general improvement until the early months of the new year, and some quarters believe it is still too soon to begin discounting such a gain.

LAVAL CONFERENCES

Premier Laval's conferences with President Hoover late this week assume a place of topmost importance in the prospective news. The gold export movement will also be watched closely. A slackening of the outflow is anticipated by many bankers as a result of firmer money rates.

Sterling was steady, opening unchanged at $3.88.

Special notices of stockholders of Kresge Department Stores, Inc., has been called for Oct. 29 to consider an offer of S. S. Kresge to purchase the entire interest of Kresge Department Stores, Inc., in Kresge Department Store Corporation, owning a store in Newark, N. J. Stockholders of record as of Oct. 17 are entitled to vote at the meeting.

New York Rubber Exchange announced receipt of a cable from Singapore confirming reports that on steamship company, with offices at Singapore, has reduced freight rates on rubber from the Far East to New York.

BEAR INTEREST FIGURES GIVEN

New York, Oct. 19 (INS)—New York Stock Exchange today made public for the first time a complete weekly compilation of the short interest in the stock market from May 23 of this year to October 7.

Peak of the year was reached on May 23. The following week the volume of short sales decreased to 948,260 shares and by July 3 had further declined to 3,034,261 shares.

Following tabulation shows the total short interest on the respective 1931 dates: July 3, 4,038,830 shares; July 20, 4,408,100 shares; Sept. 21, 3,697,000 shares; Sept. 23, 2,929,285 shares; Sept. 30, 3,056,200 shares; Oct. 7, 2,643,170 shares; Oct. 7, 2,307,583 shares.

Tabulations of the short interest are being made weekly, but the stock exchange authorities have not yet decided whether the results will be made public.

Japanese Imports of Steel Decline

Imports of iron and steel scrap to Japan from the United States have recently declined to 6000 tons a month, and the total for this year is not expected to be more than 80,000 tons, cable to the Iron Age says.

Scrap is still being imported from the South Sea sources, but Japanese consumers are using increasing tonnages of pig iron, which is low in price because of competition between the domestic product and imported iron from India.

World Output of Smelter Copper Up

World smelter production of copper as distinct from refinery output in September was 120,669 short tons, compared with 121,655 tons in August and 156,705 tons in September a year ago, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

Daily rate of world copper output in September diminished to 4,733 tons against 3924 tons in August and 5244 tons in September, 1930.

Auto Registration Down in September

September registrations of new passenger cars in the first nine states to report were 31 per cent behind last year.

On the basis of this showing the national registration total last month was about 121,000 as compared with 175,000 a year ago and 186,000 in August, 1931.

Just a Dream

By Darrell McClure

GEE WHIZ—I DREAMED THAT UNCLE PADDY AN' HIS WIFE WAS BACK FROM ICELAND, AN' I WAS LIVING WITH 'EM—AN' I WAS SO GLAD, I HOLLERED WITH JOY!
I GUESS I HOLLERED SO LOUD I WOKE MYSELF UP—GOLLY, I WISHT DREAMS WAS REAL!
IF UNCLE PADDY WAS BACK—I BETCHA HE'D 'DOPT ME—AN' I'D HAVE A REAL HOME LIKE OTHER KIDS—AND THE CAPTAIN AN' BILL WOULDN'T HAVE TO SPEND THEIR LAST FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS SENDING ME TO A SNOOTY SCHOOL
THEY COULD BUY A BOAT WITH THE $5000—AN' I COULD LIVE WITH UNCLE PADDY AN' GO TO A PUBLIC SCHOOL—GEE, IT MAKES ME GLAD ALL OVER TO PRETEND THAT I WASN'T DREAMING, WHEN I KNOW I WAS!

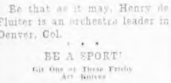
Get One of These Frisby Art Knives



We would like to have all our readers stand for two minutes in silent tribute to the Frisby Art Photo Lady's Leg Knife, which comes with fancy handle, showing Aunt Bella in an interesting physical culture pose. Congressman Frisby wants to sell these knives, which are made in Germany, to promote international understanding. "And for a small additional price," he declares, "I will place my own photograph beneath the celluloid, instead of the brazen beauty, who, after all, should realize that woman's place is not on the handle of a pen knife."

PORT OF BOSTON

By JAMES J. DELANEY

A decrease in the shipment of New England apples out of the port of Boston is seen as a result of the new regulations put into effect by the government of Great Britain.

Under the new rules two certificates are required now with shipments to England, one that the apples are of a fancy grade, and the other that they are free of worms.

Cut of 10 cents per barrel has been made to Hamburg, French Atlantic ports, Rotterdam, Antwerp and the United Kingdom.

CAPTAIN CLEARED

Capt. R. E. Hutchinson, who was in command of the motor tanker Texaco 14, which went aground in the Cape Cod Canal on Sept. 1, was exonerated of all blame in connection with the mishap in a finding handed down by the United States Local Inspectors of Steam Vessels. After hearing all the evidence in the case, the inspectors came to the conclusion that the affair was an error of judgment, and that no negligence entered the case.

BOOTS AND SHOES

Statements listing the approximate annual production of boots and shoes in foreign countries are available at the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce at 1600 Custom House today.

Mayor Curley's Generosity With American Taxpayers' Thirteen Thousand Million

Mayor Curley has cancelled our war debts of late with impetuous generosity.

They amount to some thirteen thousand million dollars. That is a tidy sum, even for the Mayor.

In the Mayor's enthusiasm for debtor foreign Nations, he doubtlessly would avoid anything that might bring them into disrepute.

He ought, therefore, to advise them, privately if necessary, that to run out on their debts, honestly contracted, is the one contemptible lapse from virtue certain to lose for them such little respect as they have been able to save among the people of America.

These are DEBTS, not gifts. The people of America dug into their pockets for these thirteen thousand million dollars. They gave themselves and their money on a wave of patriotic ardor to save these debtor Nations and foreign people from utter extinction.

When you loan a man money to build a home, you expect him to pay you. An honest, upright New Englander will pay you, even if he has to deprive himself and his family.

But when you loan Nations billions to save them from utter collapse and ruin, to preserve their very identity as Nations, you have every right to expect that they will PAY you with promptitude and gratitude and not play the role of quibblers and cheap welshers.

France, like a mortgage collector, was rapping at OUR doors, demanding that we pay her Revolutionary loans to us, EVEN BEFORE OUR FOREFATHERS HAD ESTABLISHED A FISCAL AND CURRENCY SYSTEM FOR THE NEW UNITED STATES.

WE PAID. AND IN FULL.

We have cancelled in excess of 51 per cent, more than half, of the vast sums we loaned to France when she was on the verge of utter rout and defeat. Yet she hesitates, ducks, dodges and avoids while embryonic statesmen in this country encourage her to believe that if she holds out long enough she will not have to pay a nickel.

If she doesn't pay, and if the others do not pay, who will? The American taxpayers, of course. They will pay. These billions will come out of their pockets, not out of the Mayor's.

Calvin Coolidge has had somewhat more experience in national and international affairs than the Mayor. And Mr. Coolidge said in his homely, honest, effective way:

"If we have any money to give away, we ought to be giving it to Americans, not to foreigners."

Mr. Coolidge said that WHEN TIMES WERE PROSPEROUS.

If it held good then, how much more salient it is today, when the business of American officials, from Pennsylvania Avenue to School Street, ought to be affording work and relief for American people instead of loading them down with burdens which would expand their hardships and impede their recovery from distress.

The Mayor has done well in Boston. We want him to serve us here. The people across the ocean have their own mayors and their own statesmen very capable and loyal in looking out for their own interests.

Our House in Order First, Mr. Hoover!

Throughout the country there is deepening feeling of concern at the Administration's preoccupation with problems that lie outside our borders.

Internationalism has become a raging obsession with the authorities at Washington. The problems which interest the President most deeply seem not to be our own problems, but those of other peoples. This is no serious a situation, in view of the number and gravity of our domestic problems clamoring for solution, that words of mere exception or criticism seem out of place.

THERE MUST BE A CHANGE.

The outlook of our Government must be corrected.

Not in the language of protest do we speak, but in terms of frank entreaty—entreaty to the President to come home from abroad and dwell among his people; to bring his mind, his thought, his sense of responsibility, back to their problems.

Mr. Hoover is too much concerned with foreign affairs.

The League of Nations is a hopeless futility. The baleful lure which it exerts over our Secretary of State is a very irritating fact to Americans. But the President should not follow this will o' the wisp into the dismal swamp for which it is headed.

Our international bankers have got themselves into an awkward situation in their solicitude for Europe. THEY ARE TRYING TO SADDLE THE CONSEQUENCES OF THEIR BAD JUDGMENT UPON THEIR OWN COUNTRYMEN, BUT THEY WILL NOT SUCCEED.

They will soon realize that the American taxpayer does not propose to underwrite their loans and they will find some other solution for their troubles without further compromising the American people.

Problems such as these should not absorb the President's activities. He should not allow his attention and his mental energies to be appropriated by any group of advisers, guided in reality by the special interests which they seek to serve, and actuated by loyalties which are quite distinct and apart from American interests.

There are plenty of problems pressing for solution at home.

The welfare of the United States cannot be made subordinate to foreign interests.

This nation has grown great upon its own resources and the intelligence with which they have been handled.

We have abundant strength within our own boundaries to achieve complete and speedy recovery from the current depression, if we but concentrate our energies upon our true tasks, and do not dissipate them in a QUIXOTIC AND UNTHANKED EFFORT to rescue all creation.

Mr. Hoover was elected President of the UNITED STATES and should rid his internationalist mind of the Wilsonian delusion that he is president of the world.

His Light Shines On!

Our Leadership a National Bankrupt

By Claude G. Bowers

EN ROUTE TO YORKTOWN—President Hoover pauses in his journey to make a radio appeal for aid to the jobless through private charity. With millions out of employment and hundreds of thousands forced on private charity to escape starvation, it is to be hoped that all who can afford to give will contribute as generously as possible. Of course, not enough will be subscribed by private charity to rid us of the breadlines that reflect shame on our civilization. It is demoralizing enough to be forced to take the bread of charity when one would prefer to work and get wages for services rendered, but it is less humiliating to the unfortunate than standing in a line-up on the street in the breadlines.

If our best thinkers are more concerned today with the "morale" of the workers than with the preservation of their homes, we are not at all convinced that the "American way" is more effective than the English way. It may be doubted whether a man's "morale" is shaken so much by giving him $8 a week to feed himself and family through the grocer than in lining him up as an exhibition in a breadline. But neither is necessary if the man can be given work, and the Government of the United States has a superabundance of public work that can and should be done. We have somehow permitted ourselves to be convinced that it is not "the American way" for the Government to furnish work in any crisis.

For a Prosperity Loan to Put Men to Work

There is no man in America more remote from socialism and radicalism than the Rev. John A. Ryan, the political economist, and he has a way constantly of reminding us of our duty that must be increasingly annoying to the Poliyannas in Washington. He, too, hopes that people with means will contribute to the care of the suffering this Winter, but he says:

"The proposition that unemployment relief should be provided through private contributions and voluntary agencies is false in theory and inequitable and inadequate in practice."

He also has some ideas about "doles" that are not easy to confute. Thus:

"Private contributions to provide food, clothing and other necessities for the unemployed are doles. Relief expenditures by municipal authorities are doles."

If it is not a dole for municipalities, counties and States why is it a dole for the Federal Government to furnish relief?

And Dr. Ryan cannot sympathize with the view of the Federal authorities that if private charity passes out enough bread to prevent actual starvation, organized society has done its duty in the present crisis. He says:

"In a country as large as ours, men have a moral right to something more than immunity from starvation. They have a right to decent maintenance and elementary comfort."

In other words, they have a right to work, and he proposes a five-billion-dollar prosperity loan to put men to work in building roads and in making other needed improvements that permanently increase the wealth of the nation.

President Hoover is against anything of the sort.

His interest is confined just now to the condition of the banks and railroads.

Bankers Are Eager to Get Their Interest

He is shocked at the thought of floating a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan to give work to the unemployed, and the American people are afraid that he may not be so much opposed to placing a burden of $11,000,000,000 on the people to relieve the burden of our debtors across the sea. Whatever his thoughts on the coming conference with M. Laval, the clever Premier of France, there is no doubt as to what is in the mind of that distinguished statesman. He will discuss debts with Mr. Hoover even though Mr. Hoover does not discuss debts with him. The bankers here, who loaned billions to our debtors, knowing they owed us all these billions and claimed they could not pay, would like to see the eleven billions lifted so they could get their own billions back—with interest. This, of course, can be arranged by shifting the burden of the governmental debt from the people who borrowed the money to those who loaned it.

The average man would rather see $5,000,000,000 come out of the Treasury to put suffering humanity to work than to see $11,000,000,000 come out in the interest of other people.

Problem to Put Potential Buyers on Their Feet

There are two schools of political thought. One believes in taking care of the men at the top in the hope that some of their prosperity will drip through to the many below. This is the theory on which the Administration at Washington moves.

The other school believes that the men at the top cannot be prosperous if the many down below are in distress.

The Administration school is sure that with the banks protected, the anti-trust laws changed in the interest of the big industrialists, and the railroads given an increase in rates, all will be well.

The other school knows that neither the banks, the industrialists, the merchants or the railroads can be restored to their normal earning power as long as 30,000,000 people on the farms and 20,000,000 unemployed, including their dependents, are unable to buy.

The problem of prosperity in America is to find a way to put these 50,000,000 potential buyers on their feet, and the Administration cannot see it.

"Administration Weighed in Scale and Found Wanting"

The truth, recognized by all, is that the Administration in a grave crisis has been weighed in the scale and found wanting—wanting in vision, in initiative, in constructive capacity, in courage, and in human sympathy. It has no program now. So far as the public knows its thought is centered on maintaining the tariff rates that have admittedly been ruinous to trade; in turning Muscle Shoals over to the exploitation of private interests; to changing the Federal Reserve System in such a way as will make it less safe for the public, and safer for speculation; and to increase the rates for the railroads.

It has neither a record nor a program that will appeal to the people at the polls next year.

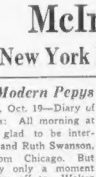
New York Day by Day

Diary of a Modern Pepys

NEW YORK, Oct. 19—Diary of a modern Pepys: All morning at my chores and glad to be interrupted by H. N. and Ruth Swanson, motoring in from Chicago. But they would stay only a moment and I sent them off to Walter Trumbull's in my new benzine buggy, very regal.



To the depot to meet Meredith Nicholson, a-journeying from Indianapolis, and with him to the Ambassador to sit awhile exchanging argle-bargle about this, that and the other and in especial the superiority of the paw-paw. So home and found Dick Berlin, the gazetteer.

To the theater and sat alongside the critic Burns Mantle, whose slothful assistant I used to be and the staunchest character I know. And between acts talking to Irma Goldberg, Kent Cooper, Will and Jessie Hayes and Robert Ripley. Then driving Sime Silverman to his Variety office, and to bed.

It seems no time since Robert L. Ripley came shyly out of the west—one of the most bashful cartoonists Park Row ever beheld. He had come from native San Francisco to draw sport cartoons for the old Globe. The first time I met him he was gazing at after midnight life from a darkened corner of Tom Healy's jazz temple at 66th st. and Broadway. In those days, although a champion sprinter and winner of many boxing trophies, he blushed like a school girl. Today "Rip," as the most amazing success of the syndicated field, addresses large audiences, appears in the talkies, before the microphone and has become an accomplished first nighter. Years have edged his hair back, but with all his traveled sophistications he is still savored with the charm of naivete. A stranger might suspect no one had even told him the Facts of Life. Ripley lives at an athletic club and keeps in physical trim. Otherwise he could not stand the grueling grind of professional demands upon his time.

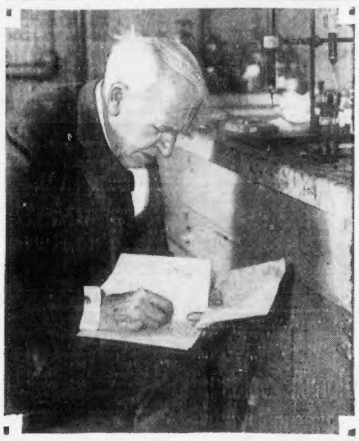
Genius of Light Has Gone

But His Work and His Light Remain, to Bless the World

(Copyright, 1931)



THOMAS A. EDISON, GREATEST AMERICAN SINCE LINCOLN

The whole world, and the country that loved him, sorrowfully bid farewell to Thomas A. Edison.

Wherever there is light after the sun goes down there is Edison's genius enlightening and LIGHTING the world.

Wherever students, teachers, mechanics or any others work after darkness falls Edison makes their work possible.

He was the genius of light, of electricity and especially A GENIUS OF WORK.

In his early youth he began hard work and he never stopped until age and death put an end to the activity of his brain.

His inventions are said to have numbered 1300 in all.

The greatest of them, most magnificent contribution to human happiness, comfort and progress, is the incandescent electric light.

The world owes him also the phonograph (this editorial is dictated to an "ediphone"). It owes him the establishment of the world's first central power plant, planned, erected and managed under his direction.

Every power plant, everywhere in the world, is the outgrowth of that work.

To enumerate Edison's inventions, his contributions to the welfare of humanity, would require pages.

It is desirable in this time of depression and unemployment to remind his fellow Americans of the work that Edison did TO SUPPLY WORK FOR OTHERS.

At this moment in the United States there are EIGHT HUNDRED THOUSAND MEN EMPLOYED, thanks to Edison and directly because of Edison's inventions.

The payroll of this gigantic working army of eight hundred thousand exceeds ONE THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR.

The man whom you see above, plain, simple, hard working, unpretentious American, lies in his coffin; but in his own country nearly a million men are earning more than a billion dollars a year, thanks to him.

And all over the world endless thousands are employed and well paid, light is spread, existence is made happier and more convenient, thanks to the man who is dead.

The nation loses in Edison the greatest American since Abraham Lincoln, and the American who has done more in the way of practical usefulness for the whole world than any American has ever done.

He worked as genius always does, TO REALIZE HIS IDEAS AND MAKE THEM USEFUL, not with any thought of profit.

His work created hundreds of millionaires, has paid millions and billions in dividends and wages, and will continue to pay other billions for endless years to come.

He was content with plain clothes, machinery that he needed for experiments and enough money to carry on those experiments.

Any one of five hundred little "power men" have 10 times more money, thanks to Edison, than Edison ever had.

He was glad to have them make it, did not grudge it, for HE HAS THE GLORY.

He lived long, worked hard, helped education, provided employment, created new wealth, never ceased working and never spared himself until death took him, and left the world better and happier than he found it.

What more can you say for any man than can be said for Thomas A. Edison, as the world which he enlightened and LIGHTED, sorrowfully bids him farewell.

Honor him, and think with gratitude of the mother who gave him to America.

Words of the Wise Men

The web of our life is of a mingled yarn, good and ill together. —Shakespeare.

As a man should always be upon his guard against the vices to which he is most exposed, so we should take a more ordinary care not to lie at the mercy of the weather in our moral conduct. —Addison.

No evil propensity of the human heart is so powerful that it may not be subdued by discipline. —Seneca.
